U.S. PRESIDENT TO RESUBMIT SEAWAY TREATY TO SENATE

Roosevelt to Seek Slight Modification in Agreement With Canada Before Asking Congress to Approve Project—One Revision Concerns Use of American Workmen

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (AP).—Determined to try again, despite the decisive coalition rejection last session of his St. Lawrence Waterway Treaty, President Roosevelt made plans today to resubmit the pact to the new Senate after slight modifications are worked out with Canada.

This was reported in official circles at the same time that President Roosevelt let it be known he had invited Frank P. Walsh, chairman of the New York Power Authority, to become an informal member of National Resources Board. This group will report to the executive by December 1 the foundation for a national resources conservation and power policy.

It was emphasized in authoritative quarters, today, that while diplomatic discussions with Canada would be held regarding treaty changes, the general principles of the pact would be retained. One of the minor revisions to be sought concerns the provision regarding the use of American workmen on the Canadian side of the river. This was one of the points around which much of the Senate opposition revolved. The chief issue, though, was whether Atlantic, Gulf and Mississippi River ports would not suffer more than the North Atlantic, Mid-West and Far West would benefit.

The highly-controverted Chicago diversion provision would not be modified, it was said.

CAREFUL ANALYSIS
OTTAWA, Oct. 5 (CP).—If any alterations are suggested by Washington to the Canada-United States St. Lawrence Waterways Treaty, they would have to be given the most careful analysis before any decision was made, it was stated here tonight. Officials were reluctant to discuss the possibility of any changes.

HAUPTMANN IS DECLARED SANE

Four Alienists Report on Examination of Lindbergh Kidnapping Suspect

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 (AP).—Bruno Richard Hauptmann, the German carpenter accused of extorting the $50,000 ransom in the Lindbergh baby kidnapping, was pronounced sane, late today, by four alienists who examined him for New York and New Jersey authorities.

A fifth psychiatrist, representing the defence, did not join the other doctors in signing the information, nor did he express his opinion on the case.

HANDS OVER LETTERS
While the defence obtained a court order requiring District Attorney Samuel J. Foley to show cause, on Monday, why Hauptmann's counsel should not see the grand jury minutes, thirteen letters, written in German, were turned over to authorities by Max Fleck, a Bronx solicitor's store proprietor. They were written to Hauptmann, Foley said, by Plinius Fisch, a brother of the man who, the prisoner declares, gave him the money which was later identified as part of the ransom. The brother was Isaac Fisch, now dead.

The letters, the district attorney announced, told of Isaac's death and requested detailed information about Hauptmann's business relations with him. At Flemington, N.J., county seat of Hunterdon County, where the Lindbergh estate was located, it was announced that the grand jury will be convened on Monday to consider indicting Hauptmann for murder and kidnapping.

WINTER RELIEF GRANTS SETTLED

British Columbia to Receive $200,000 Monthly From Ottawa Until End of March

OTTAWA, Oct. 5 (CP).—Monthly grants for relief costs of $135,000 to Manitoba, $200,000 to Saskatchewan, $100,000 to Alberta and $200,000 to British Columbia, probably will be announced in the new relief agreement by the Dominion with the Provinces, it was learned here tonight.

For some time, negotiations have been under way with each of the Provinces, and an official announcement of the complete terms of the arrangements in each case is expected shortly. The agreements will terminate March 31.

TAKES GOLD OUT OF SEA

Experiment to Recover Precious Metals From Ocean Water Proves Success

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 (AP).—Recovery of the first actual gold and silver ever taken from sea water, tapping the storehouse of metal everywhere dissolved in the water, was announced here tonight, by Dr. Willard H. Dow, of the Ethyl-Dow Chemical Company.

This first precious sea water metal is a tiny nugget, one-tenth of a milligram, no bigger than the head of a pin. It is half gold and half silver. It came from the Atlantic Ocean at Wilmington, N.C. It is part of the gold and silver in twelve tons of sea water which was run through the sea water bromine plant near Wilmington of the Ethyl-Dow Company.

FULLS PREDICTION
The recovery fulfills a prediction made at St. Petersburg last March by the same chemists that gold and silver could be taken from sea water. It also proves definitely the error in the world-wide scientific belief that no practical way would be found to get the gold out of the sea. The twelve tons of water yielded up part of its gold and silver by a treatment with colloidal sulphur. This sulphur was practically liquid. It dissolved in the water and when it settled out like a sediment, it carried the long-sought precious metals.

SCIENTIFIC EXPERIMENT
Dr. Dow said this sulphur treatment is not the start of a commercial gold recovery programme, but purely scientific experiment to explore possibilities. At present, he said, the bromine, which is being taken from the sea water in large quantities for making anti-knock gasoline, is many times more valuable commercially than the gold. Dr. Dow made his announcement at a meeting here of the New York section of the American Chemical Society.

PROVINCE WILL WAIVE AUCTION

Annual Tax Sale of Provincial Lands Will Be Omitted for Third Year

British Columbia will waive the annual sale of tax-default lands definitely this year for the third consecutive year, it was confirmed yesterday by Frank Sehl, provincial collector. The sale would have been held under normal conditions this month, with many properties involved.

As a measure of relief to landowners, and an encouragement to them to hold on to their properties and restore them to good standing, the yearly auction is to be omitted. The last sale of Provincial tax lands was held in 1931. Sales were omitted in 1932, 1933, and now again this year. Many owners of property held from the Province have paid off taxes owing in the earlier years, and have made supreme efforts to bring their properties back into good standing. A forced sale now would have driven scores off the land, without any benefit to the Province.

STATUTE LABOR
As an additional means of relief this year in rural areas, farmers in tax default have been given a limited opportunity to work out the oldest year of their taxes on road work, under a statute labor policy. They are taking advantage of the concession.

Provincial officials point out that while Provincial tax sales have been waived, it will require determined efforts on the part of owners to place their properties back in good standing. In some cases there has been an accumulation of unpaid tax bills since 1930. For the most part, such efforts are being made, and the law of a further year has been very generally appreciated, it is intimate.

With the Byrd Party in the Antarctic

Urges Wider Activity of Rotary to Help Under-Privileged

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., Oct. 5 (CP).—Wider activity by the Rotary Club in the interests of under-privileged children was urged by Percy B. Scurrah, of Victoria, district governor of Rotary, in an address to the New Westminster club.

Because of economic conditions in the world during the past few years, Mr. Scurrah said, thousands of children have been turned out of schools, colleges and universities, unable to find employment. Rotary Clubs should enlarge their under-privileged child work to include all youth, and endeavor to find a solution to this economic loss.

ARE DISCOVERED IN BOOK STALLS

Careless Handling of Important British State Documents Leads to Recall Order

LONDON, Oct. 5 (CP).—Discovery of important state documents floating around second-hand bookstalls in London was said today to be the cause of the Government's order requiring ex-ministers to return any state documents in their possession.

Reports that the call went out because of the continued publication of memoirs by former members of the British Cabinet were scoffed at. Apparently derelict documents, originally in possession of ministers now dead, have turned up in odd places lately, and in order to prevent possibly dangerous material circulating abroad, the Government asked all ex-Cabinet ministers to co-operate.

Ireland Prohibits Imports of Sugar

DUBLIN, Oct. 5 (AP).—The Irish Government today prohibited the importation of sugar for household use. It was expected that on the completion of three sugar beet factories now under construction the Free State will be able to produce all the sugar it needs for domestic requirements.

REVOLUTION SPREADS TO MANY CITIES AND TOWNS IN SPAIN

Scores Killed as Clashes Increase Rapidly Between Strikers and Troops—Thousands Arrested But Government Meeting With Little Success at Stamping Out Uprisings

Radical Parties Planned To Set Up Third Republic

MADRID, Oct. 6 (AP).—All the military and police forces of the Spanish Republic were poised in the tense hours this morning, to strike a smashing blow at the revolution which already has cost an estimated eighty-five lives. The forces of the bitter rebels, scattered through much of the nation to execute long-planned manoeuvres, were reported to be in readiness for a decisive clash. In the Madrid sector the troops struck first today. Lying in wait on the road which leads from the suburban airport at Getafe, soldiers seized thirty-five extremists who were attempting to bring sub-machine guns into the city.

Throughout the nation there was an impression that the new Government of Premier Alejandro Larroux had reached a critical juncture, and that the next few hours might determine whether it would be able to survive the assaults of the revolutionists.

GUARDS HELD AS HOSTAGES
From Meres came reports that extremists had captured a detachment of twenty-two assault guards, had disarmed them and were holding them as hostages. Troops were rushed to their rescue.

Soldiers recaptured the town of Mondragon, where Deputy Orejas was slain in a disorder, yesterday. While an atmosphere of extreme tension existed in Government quarters it was contended that a period of comparative quiet early today indicated that the revolt was beginning to collapse under pressure of the Government's stern measures.

AWAITING OPPORTUNITY
Leftists asserted, however, that the period was merely one of watchfulness for an opportune moment for concerted revolutionary action. A report from Zaragoza stated that extremists had declared the establishment of a Liberal Communist republic in the town of Uncastrillo, and that they had killed four guards, while one of their number was slain. In Government circles satisfaction with the situation in Catalonia was expressed when it was reported that the general strike had been called off, and that dairies, bakeries and provision stores to remain open.

BEAR FEASTS ON SOMENOS HONEY

Rare Visitor Also Helps Himself to Prunes in the Orchard

DUNCAN, Oct. 5.—Mrs. G. A. Kier, of Somenos, whose apiary is well known all over Vancouver Island, and whose honey products have taken many prizes in Victoria, Vancouver and locally, had a disagreeable surprise on Tuesday. Returning from a visit to Vancouver, she found seventeen hives upset and destroyed.

Suspecting the depredations of a bear, Mrs. Kier got in touch with Game Warden Robert Marshall, who suggested getting a well-known game hunter with his dogs. Tracks were found which led across the creek to the empty lair of a bear.

A truck driver passing the Kier farm, recently at dawn, told of seeing a bear, which appeared to be eight feet tall, taking fruit from a prune tree in the orchard.

The Kier farm is situated on the Island Highway at Somenos, in the midst of a well-settled district, and this is the first time in fifty years residence that Mrs. Kier remembers bear doing damage to property here.

Although the loss of the hives is a serious one, fortunately nearly all the season's crop of honey had been extracted before Mrs. Kier's visit to Vancouver.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 5 (AP).—Led into action before a roaring crowd of home folks by the old raider, John Leonard ("Pepper") Martin, St. Louis Cardinals dropped another pitching bombshell with the Dean family label into the ranks of Detroit Tigers today, and captured the third game of baseball's world championship battle with a spectacular flourish.

Paul "Duffy" Dean, twenty-two-year-old freshman member of the celebrated clan, picked up where "Dizzy" left off in the first game and pitched the National League champion to a decisive 4-1 victory, with an astonishing exhibition under almost constant pressure.

VANCOUVER HEARS ELECTION RUMORS

Six Citizens Mentioned as Opponents of Mayor Taylor at December Poll

VANCOUVER, Oct. 5 (CP).—With Vancouver's civic elections still two months away, at least six citizens have been mentioned as possible opponents of Mayor Louis D. Taylor, who is seeking re-election.

Those prominently mentioned are G. O. McCreer, K.C., M.P.P.; Fred Crane, who was unsuccessful two years ago; J. W. Cornett, former reeve of South Vancouver and former M.P.P.; Colonel Nelson Spencer, former M.P.P.; and Dr. A. D. Buchan, of the Federated Ratepayers' Association, and Alderman J. J. McRae.

No definite indication that he will run has been given by any of the six. Polling day is December 12.

RAIL MERGER IS UNLIKELY

A. F. Whitney, President of Trainmen's Brotherhood Is City Visitor

There is little likelihood of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Canadian National Railway consolidating, it was declared by Alexander F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, in an interview at the Empress Hotel, last night.

On arrival from Vancouver, yesterday, Mr. Whitney, accompanied by his wife and secretary, M. Markey, was met by officials of the B.R.T. Lodge here. In the evening he addressed a meeting of local trainmen and discussed consolidation, unemployment insurance and pensions.

BITTERLY OPPOSED
Pointing out that consolidation between the two Canadian roads would cut approximately one-third of the trainmen, or 3,500 persons from the pay roll, Mr. Whitney explained that Canadian cities have strongly opposed this proposed action. In fact, so bitterly has it been opposed in the East, that "the sentiments of the people have literally thrown a wet blanket over the proposition," the visitor explained. The only way such a consolidation could be brought about now would be by a sudden "accident" on the part of the railway executives, he added.

In the United States, on every hand, publicity bureaus, chambers of commerce, boards of trade, service clubs and other organizations have brought pressure to bear against all proposed consolidations. It was explained.

In referring to a conference now being held in Winnipeg between representatives of the B.R.T. and officials of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways regarding the refunding of certain wage cuts, Mr. Whitney said he was fully confident that it would end successfully.

SEEKING REFUND
He explained the present agreement with the railways, providing for a 15 per cent cut through most of the services, terminates at the end of October. The first cut, one of 10 per cent, dates back two years when a continuation of poor business led the railways to seek further economies. The companies later gave notice of an additional 10 per cent cut, which was reduced to five, making a total of 15 per cent. Drawing attention to improved railways' earnings in recent months, Mr. Whitney maintained railways should consent to refund the two cuts on an instalment basis.

Mr. Whitney will leave the city this morning for Seattle where he will address other lodges. A programme covering 7,000 miles lies ahead of the president before his tour is finished.

The First Dominion Day

Within a few months of Confederation (July 1st, 1867), the EMU Company came into existence. In those days the pioneering of Australian Wines—like the pioneering of the Fathers of Confederation—was difficult work. But we have won through. EMU Wines are now deservedly popular throughout the Empire. Two wines which have made a considerable reputation throughout Canada are EMU 444 and EMU 999—White and Tawny Port. They are produced on our own vineyards at Morphet Vale (South Australia); aged in the wood and are wines of outstanding quality. They cost you considerably less than Foreign Port of equal quality because their Empire origin entitles them to a preferential tariff when entering Canada.

FRANK A. ROLPH ARRIVES HERE

President of Imperial Bank and Party Paying Short Visit to Victoria

FRANK A. ROLPH

In the opinion of Frank A. Rolph, president of the Imperial Bank of Canada, who arrived here this morning from Vancouver with a party of banking officials, the visitor expects low rates to prevail for a number of years, and this reduction, he feels, will be reflected in Provincial and municipal finance, also, although they cannot get quite as low rates as the Dominion.

Canadian banks will have to assist the Government, as the Federal Department of Finance will have difficulty placing a loan of the magnitude of the present issue with the people of Canada in view of the small return offered, the visitor contends.

However, there is a point beyond which reductions on interest rates can not go. The general trend will be governed by Government action. Banks will co-operate to reduce rates so long as it is done on a basis equitable to everybody, Mr. Rolph explains.

Accompanying the president are Mr. A. E. Phillips, general manager of the bank; H. E. Sellers, a director, president of Alberta Pacific Grain Company, and retiring president of Winnipeg Grain Exchange; Colonel G. H. Aiken, K.C., another Winnipeg director; H. P. Baker, secretary of the bank; and Gordon D. Ritchie, Western supervisor.

REVOLUTION IN SPAIN IS SPREADING RAPIDLY

It was estimated that 1,500 demonstrators, many of them desperate revolutionists, have been arrested. In Madrid alone 500 have been borne off to police stations. Several hundred were wounded.

RAILWAY DESTROYED
It was reported, early today, that extremists destroyed the Northern Railway line in Corboretoria, to prevent the mobilization of troops.

Along the railway line connecting the Basque Provinces with Asturias, rebels seized the train and ran it up and down several miles of the line which they had seized. Troops finally managed to blockade a tunnel, stopping the train. Fifty revolutionists aboard were arrested.

Some regions, however, reported that the revolution is spreading rapidly in central and northern cities had not taken root. From Valencia it was reported that the general strike was virtually a failure and that cafes, theatres and provisions stores remained open. Authorities at Seville said the strike was a failure.

MUNITIONS DISCOVERED
In Bilbao, authorities found numerous caches of munitions, but stated there were no serious disorders.

Bilbao police raided a convent, formerly Jesuit property, but now belonging to the Government, and found about 100 powerful bombs ready for use, twenty pistols and a supply of ammunition.

In the nearby town of Bermeo, extremists raised a red flag and formally declared the existence of a soviet republic. Civil guards suppressed this movement, promptly.

The new Government of Premier Alejandro Lerroux, in office only twenty-four hours, was watching the situation closely and issued orders that, under martial law, all extremists carrying weapons should be shot. Madrid citizens hurried to their homes as the Government declared it could not be responsible for the lives of those on the streets.

BUSINESS PARALYZED
Scattered reports indicated that the revolutionary strike had almost paralyzed commerce, industry and transportation at many places in Spain.

Ranks of the Left Republicans, who yesterday fully repudiated the new regime, were swelled tonight by Miguel G. Maurer, a leading leader, who asserted his hostility towards the Lerroux Government.

Prominent Left Republican deputies told the Associated Press they would not be surprised if President Niceto Alcala Zamora resigned, since they said they could not understand how he became involved in a situation which endangered the Republican regime.

PLAN THIRD REPUBLIC
MADRID, Oct. 5 (CP-HAVES).—Rumors that the Left Republican party was planning to institute a Third Republic, with Former Premier Manuel Azana as president, were current in many parts of Spain, tonight.

The new regime would be organized along federal lines, it was said.

DESCRIBE STRATEGIES
OVIEDO, Spain, Oct. 5 (AP).—Crafty strategies by Spanish revolutionaries were described today by witnesses to the uprising in turbulent Asturias.

Simultaneous attacks on scattered barracks of the civil guards were made by rebels. In some sections, machine guns controlled strategic sections of highways.

One route employed on several occasions was to call civil guards to isolated places and to kill them from ambush as they approached.

In Posadas, revolutionists made a stronghold of a cemetery. They concealed themselves behind vaults, and in a spirited engagement with civil guards bullets splattered on the tombstones. The civil guards finally were victorious.

SEIZE BARRACKS
One witness reported that in Uria, rebels killed two civil guards and two children of one of them. In Mieres, extremists stormed and took a barracks, and for some time held the building and the guards within it. They surrendered after soldiers threatened to attack with high explosives.

Numerous women and children were reported to be in barracks with civil guards at Ujo, while rebels laid siege. Troops were being rushed to this scene of action.

Soldiers succeeded in dislodging numerous rebels from strongholds in the Manzanares Mountains, where machine gun nests overlooked the passes.

Airplanes, reconnoitering and dropping bombs over the mountainous region all day, and aviators prepared to continue their activities tomorrow.

Machine gun detachments from the Valtierra barracks were moving into Asturias.

CITY'S BUDGET BEING DRAFTED

Offsetting this handicap to some extent is the increase in revenues from Provincial grants that have been experienced this year purely from a general pick-up in business, and a consequent increase in the number of motor licences, issued, more liquor sold, and a greater amount of money bet on the horse races.

The first draft of the budget will be used solely for the purpose of giving the incoming council, part of which has yet to be elected, a general picture of 1935 financial problems.

GOVERNMENT POLICY
A great deal will depend on the future policy of the Provincial Government, and the extent to which social service burdens as to whether the council will be able to balance the budget at the existing mill rate.

Some members of the council, however, hold the view that the council should set the mill rate at a lower level, regardless of whether the budget could be properly balanced or not. If this were done, the plan would be to balance the budget by increasing the estimated receipts from current tax accounts, basing the anticipated increase in collection on the fact that the budget would be offered taxpayers by the giving of a substantial reduction in the taxes.

THREE SENTENCED FOR ONE MURDER

Convicted Woman Told by Judge She Was Soul of Monstrous Plot

MONTREAL, Oct. 5 (CP).—Convicted here, today, of the "insurrectionary" plot to overthrow the Government of Canada, June 28, Leone Gagliardi, Angelo Donfrio, nineteen-year-old student, and a bootblack, respectively, and Tomasina Theola Sarao, widow of the slain laborer, were sentenced by Mr. Justice L. J. Levesque to be hanged on January 18, 1935.

Through several witnesses and through admissions made by both males accused, the Crown submitted that the murder had been committed by the Sarao, $6,500 of insurance would be collected by his wife, who was prepared to pay Gagliardi $1,800, and Donfrio $500, to see that "the job was properly done."

A SEPARATE CHARGE
A fourth accused, Mrs. Giovanna Theola, mother of the condemned woman, was charged on a separate indictment and may possibly be tried later. The elderly woman was called as a witness for the Crown, but added nothing to the evidence.

To the formal question as to whether they had anything to say before sentence of death was pronounced, Gagliardi shook his head and said nothing; Donfrio said, "I want to thank my lawyer—very much," and the woman offered, "I am not guilty."

The judge told Mrs. Sarao that she was the "soul of this monstrous plot." Her sex, he continued, would not protect her from the fate of her accomplices.

DEFER DECISION ON JONES CASE

Court of Appeal to Decide if Codell Should Be Declared Void

VANCOUVER, Oct. 5 (CP).—The Court of Appeal today reserved decision until Tuesday on the appeal of Howard Jones, twenty-two, of Victoria, who seeks to have a codicil to his father's will declared void, on the ground that it is contrary to public morals.

The father, Stephen Jones, Victoria hotel proprietor, died two years ago, leaving an estate valued at $87,675.

The will named the testator's wife and five children beneficiaries, the children being left annuities on an increasing scale until they are thirty-five, when they receive $100,000.

REVOKES REQUESTS
The codicil, executed June, 1933, revokes requests under the will to Howard, leaving him a monthly allowance of $70, instead, on the ground that he had contracted an "ill-advised" marriage and had become entangled in disputes with his wife.

The son based his appeal on the fact that the codicil violates the Deserter Wives Maintenance Act and common law duty of a husband to provide for his wife, and asked the court to rule that it is contrary to public morals and intended to induce him to put away his wife and not support her.

The appellant denied the suggestion in the codicil that he was not living in amity with his wife.

CONSERVATIVES ASK FOR REORGANIZATION

as I am the leader I am going to lead." The packed hall cheered him.

The leader's speech, however, bore little on the exciting events of the conference just concluded. He reviewed the record of the National Government, how in three years employment had increased by 800,000, how under new tariffs the home market had been developed.

"I think we may fairly say," Mr. Baldwin continued, "that whatever happens now, no party is going to abolish the existing tariffs."

CUTTING OUT OVERTIME
He appealed to employers to cut out overtime work where possible, and to distribute employment among those without jobs. Every one sympathized with the proposals for a shorter working week, he said, but he did not think any country or industry was yet prepared to adopt it fully.

"We do welcome," he proceeded, "every experiment by employers or individual industries in trying out a shorter working week, and we should welcome an international agreement arrived at by industry, if such an agreement is possible, and we are anxious to see one great reform, which is due, if not overdue, and that is an international convention to regulate working hours in coal mines."

NO RACKING DOWN
He hinted at changes in the Government's programme to put British agriculture on its feet, but there was no backing down on the objective, said Mr. Baldwin. "New plans have yet to be made. Existing ones will very likely have to be revised in the light of experience, for we have not been afraid to experiment. But we have set our hands to the plough and we have no intention of turning back the furrow incomplete."

Mr. Baldwin indicated that during his present visit to Australia, young Malcolm MacDonald, son of the Prime Minister and Under-Secretary for the Dominions, will discuss the migration situation as it is in Australia today, and is likely to be in the next few years. He would study when the first opportunity will occur for reopening the question of Empire migration, "vital not only to this country but vital in every point of view to our Dominions."

NO COMPULSION
Some speakers attacked the industrial reconstruction proposal as savoring of NRA methods, but it was pointed out that no measure of compulsion in industrial reorganization was in any way intended, and the convention gave it an overwhelming majority. In a nutshell, it calls for schemes to tighten up industrial organization, but only on plans submitted with majority backing of the industrial groups concerned, with the interests of workers and consumers to the forefront.

Unlike the defence resolution, and, to a lesser degree, the House of Lords' policy, Government spokesmen are lukewarm towards the industrial proposal. D. J. Colville, Under-Secretary of the Department of Overseas Trade, flatly opposed such a far-reaching measure of legislation as the resolution demanded, pointing out that the Government was already doing everything possible to assist industrial reconstruction.

THE RESOLUTION
The resolution asks the Government: "To introduce legislation which would give statutory sanction to schemes of reorganization, which will have the support of a substantial majority of an industry, subject to proper safeguards for the public interest, for all those engaged in the industry, and for the consumers of its products."

Kerr Lindsay, M.P., who sponsored the resolution, said it should be the object to secure by co-operation between Government and industry a constant increase in the standards of living of all classes of the community. Protection in itself was not enough, he said; it had failed to wipe out poverty that remained "in the midst of plenty."

Federal Loan Subscription List Soaring

OTTAWA, Oct. 5 (CP).—Subscriptions to the $250,000,000 new Dominion refunding loan have soared to more than $175,000,000, Minister of Finance E. N. Rhodes announced tonight.

"This has been the biggest day in this year's campaign, and the subscriptions received are far in excess of the fifth day's receipts last year," stated the minister.

"Where it not than Monday is Thanksgiving and Saturday only half a business day, we would probably be able to close the books on Tuesday."

TWO OFFICIALS TO STAND TRIAL

Tax Collector and Town Clerk Are Charged With Swindling Government of $52,000

MIDLAND, Ont., Oct. 5 (CP).—Magistrate Compton Jeffs, today, committed for trial on charge of fraud and conspiracy two town officials, alleged to have swindled the Ontario Government of $52,000 through manipulation of relief accounts.

Tax Collector D. A. Patchell and Town Clerk R. E. Wilson will face trial on the charges. Stanley Wilson, former relief officer, was freed. Bail of $44,000 each on which the two committed men were formerly allowed their freedom, probably will be renewed, Magistrate Compton Jeffs said.

Evidence that wood, allegedly costing $150 a cord, was sold to the Ontario Government for $7 a cord, was given.

PLEADS GUILTY TO DUNCAN BURGLARY

NANAIMO, Oct. 5.—Hugh Nelson, of Duncan, pleaded guilty before Judge C. H. Barker, here, today, to a charge of breaking and entering the Powell Clothing Store at Duncan, last November. His sentence was deferred until the close of the Fall Assizes here. Involved in the same charge, William McFadden, also of Duncan, who had previously asked for a jury trial, requested re-election. He was told by Judge Barker that he was too late, and his trial would have to come before the Assize Court.

FREIGHTER REPORTS LOSS OF PROPELLER

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (AP).—The American freighter Western Sword, reported at 12:36 a.m. today, she had lost her propeller, twenty-eight miles off Jupiter Light, near Miami, Fla., and was in need of immediate assistance.

The wireless message from the ship was picked up by the Radio Corporation of America.

SAYS HE SHOT FOR PESTERING

Feud Has Fatal End When Mocker Gets Bullet in Heart

SEATTLE, Oct. 5 (AP).—Charles G. Duke, sixty-one, wealthy property owner, told police, tonight, he slew Dr. L. W. Squier because the doctor, grotesquely garbed, was "mocking and pestering me."

There had been, for a year, a feud over money matters between Duke, the landlord, and Squier, the osteopath tenant, the neighbors said, and Duke had obtained a judgment against Squier and his partner for non-payment of rent. Duke said Squier, with mimicry, catcalls and jibes, with peculiar garb and affected posture, had "pestered" him.

Today they met. Dr. Squier and two companions approached Duke in front of the latter's business block. Duke said that the doctor, quaintly dressed, was mocking Duke's limp. Police said Duke shot Squier through the heart, with pistol, and the doctor, wearing a high silk hat, long flapping black overcoat and cane, toppled over without a word.

Internal Dispute of Building Trades Is Nearing the Crisis

Federation of Labor Convention Hears Details of Battle Among Ranks of Construction Unionists—Thousands of Members Involved

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 5 (AP).—Internal strife threatening to wreck the American Federation of Labor's building trades department came to a crisis here today just before the federation had heard Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins predict a more peaceful future between workers and employers.

The long smouldering dispute involving about 800,000 construction unionists, reached a climax when the Federation's executive council ruled the recent Building Trades Department convention illegal because it had refused to admit three "rebel" international unions to membership.

RULING IS APPEALED
Building trades' officers immediately appealed the ruling to the convention, which referred the whole controversy to an adjustment committee.

Observers said the executive council ruling, if upheld, would be tantamount to outlawing the present building trades set up with a membership of about 600,000. In such an event, it was said, the "outcast" unions—the carpenters, the bricklayers and the electrical workers—claiming a membership of around 375,000, would be given the Federation's building trades franchise.

HAVE DIFFICULT TASK
Scant hope was held by the observers that the adjustment committee would succeed in composing the difficulties, although it was conceded there was a possibility of peaceful settlement.

Another manifestation of spirit cropped out on the floor when Daniel J. Tobin, of Indianapolis, president of the International Teamsters' Union, moved that the verbal attack yesterday on Attorney-General Cummings and the Department of Justice be stricken from convention record.

The attack was made by Joseph Padway, counsel for the Wisconsin Federation of Labor. He said the Justice Department had given Labor "the shabbiest, vilest kind of treatment." He criticized Cummings for alleged failure to institute criminal proceedings for asserted violations of the National Recovery Act.

"The Attorney-General and the Department of Justice," said Tobin, "are just as anxious to get an opinion in the Supreme Court as any man here. The department is not yet quite sure if the law will be sustained in court."

WITHDRAWS MOTION
Tobin at first declined to withdraw his motion at the request of President William Green, who said Padway, as an invited guest, was entitled to the convention floor as an open forum. Later, Tobin complied with Green's request, saying he had accomplished his purpose in bringing the matter to the floor.

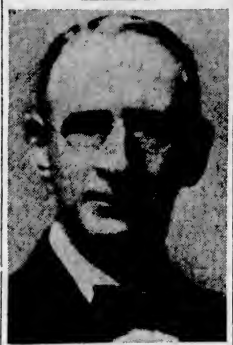

Secretary Perkins foresaw the gradual adoption of agreements between capital and labor, "with or without the assistance of mediation and arbitration," as a substitute for strikes.

Repeatedly cheered and applauded as she spoke, the Secretary also announced plans for social insurance to be presented before the next Congress, which will "embrace some form of unemployment insurance and of old age pensions."

STARTS DRIVE FOR MEMBERS

Annual Y.M.C.A. Campaign Secures Thirty-Seven New Names in First Day

FRANK PAULDING

Eight hours after the Y.M.C.A. membership drive opened yesterday, the inaugural dinner meeting was held and workers reported that they had already secured thirty-seven new memberships, with a total valuation of $376.

The meeting was marked by enthusiasm over the initial reports, and the chairman, E. G. Rowbottom, said he was extremely pleased with the splendid start. In addition to thanking the workers, he urged them on to even greater efforts. The drive will close on October 12.

CAMPAIGN MANAGER
Frank Paulding, who is acting as campaign manager, reviewed the good work that is done yearly by the Y.M.C.A. in keeping boys off the streets and keeping them engaged in healthy and wholesome work and play.

Next report meeting of the workers will be held Tuesday, at 6:15 p.m., in the Y.M.C.A. hall on Thursday, in Spencer's dining-room, the organization will celebrate the nineteenth anniversary of the founding of the Y.M.C.A.

THE HONOR FLAG
The honor flag that is presented nightly to the section obtaining the largest number of members on that day was first awarded to Jack Hartree, captain of the first section in "Y" division.

Under the leadership of Norval Paterson, with the rank of major, "Y" division obtained eleven memberships, with a total valuation of $145. Under W. W. Martin, "M" division secured ten memberships, with a valuation of $74. Under Noel Collier, "C" division sold nine memberships for $88. Under J. V. Johnson, "A" division solicited seven memberships, to secure fees amounting to $69.

ISLAND PIONEER HAS BIRTHDAY
Mrs. Harriet Knight Has Lived Here More Than Fifty Years

NANAIMO, Oct. 6.—Mrs. Harriet Knight, resident of Vancouver Island for more than half a century, is today celebrating her seventieth birthday at her Milton Street home, where she lives alone.

She came to Canada at the age of fourteen from Pembroke, Wales, to live with an uncle, the late J. P. Booth, of Saltwater Island, who at one time was a Speaker in the British Columbia Legislature. With her husband, the late James Knight, who, at the time of his death, had been a member of the Ancient Order of Foresters for eighty years, she homesteaded land in Nanosee district on Knight's Hill, which still bears their name. They were obliged to travel a trail from Jack's Hill to their pre-empted property, which turned out to have valuable coal seams, and which was sold thirty years later for $30,000.

Mrs. Knight first lived on property which she purchased on what was known as Squaw's Hill, situated between Haliburton and Nichol Streets, towards Chase River. This home was the meeting place of the musical folk of early Nanaimo, as Mrs. Knight had one of the few organs, and she was an accomplished pianist. Mrs. Knight sings beautifully at seventy. She occasionally entertains her visitors in this way, playing her own accompaniments on a much-cherished organ. She believes the human voice has an indefinite age if taken care of.

Mrs. Knight thinks many farmers fall because they do not do their own work. "We made a good living and more, on our Nanosee farm," she said, "but we worked." Few hired men will work like the man who owns the land, she says. Mrs. Knight adopted a boy, now Mr. Parker Belyea, of Qualicum. Her father was the superintendent of the Pembroke Iron & Coal Company in Pembroke, Wales, up to the time of his death. He never knew a strike among men under his jurisdiction during the many years he held the important position, Mrs. Knight states.

NANAIMO, Oct. 5.—Twelve hundred tons of coal are being loaded here, today, for Nome. The S. S. Forest King, of the Southland Steamship Company, is taking 1,000 tons, and the S. S. Depere, of the Alaska Steamship Company, 200 tons.

Ward Association Of Conservatives Selects Officers

At a well-attended and enthusiastic meeting, held in the Temperance Hall, at Keating, last night, members of Ward Six Saanich Conservative Association, elected their officers and made plans for the coming year.

Mrs. Henderson Lawrie, a popular member of the association, in Saanich, was selected as president for the 1934-35 term. F. M. Atkins was elected first vice-president; Frank Verrier, second vice-president, and W. H. McNally, secretary-treasurer. The officers named above are delegates to the Central Association, and also the executive committee of the ward group.

YOUNG GARDENERS AWARDED PRIZES

Presentation Made at Meeting of North and South Saanich Horticultural Society

SIDNEY, Oct. 5.—The monthly meeting of the North and South Saanich Horticultural Society was held in Wesley Hall, on Tuesday. There was present a large number of school children and parents, in addition to the regular members. The program was arranged to be of special interest to the children, as the evening was the occasion of the presentation of prizes to the winners of the children's garden contest, conducted by the society. This contest has been sponsored by the society for a number of years to foster an interest in children for gardening. Seeds for plots were donated to the competitors. There were twenty-two entrants in the last contest.

Dr. Gilbert, agricultural instructor in the Saanich High Schools, was the guest speaker, choosing for his subject "Introduction to Elementary Botany." Mr. Gilbert congratulated the society on including the children in its work. He encouraged the boys and girls to seek information from those who had a greater knowledge than themselves. He also urged members of the Horticultural Society to share their ideas with others. H. L. Salmon, who has always taken a great interest in the children's garden contest, presented prizes, as follows:

THE WINNERS

1. Ronald France, Hon. Randolph Bruce Challenge Cup. (Ronald France also held this cup in a previous year.)
2. Kitty Hammond.
3. Stanley Oakes.
4. John Monckton.
5. Dorothy Wright.
6. Doreen John.
7. Gordon France.
8. Gloria John.
9. John Garton.
10. Joe John.

A special prize was given to John Young, who was the youngest competitor in the contest, although not among the first ten. John Young made a very good showing under adverse gardening conditions.

Each entrant in the contest was given a half-dozen King Alfred dahlias, through the kindness of Roy Woodbridge.

Following the awarding of the prizes the children were, through the kindness of E. M. Straight, given a watermelon feast. The melons were some of those grown at the Dominion Experimental Station. The children were permitted to leave after their section of the programme was completed, before the regular meeting.

L. E. Taylor gave a demonstration on the growing of Regal Lilies in pots. The club will hold a contest at its April meeting for the growers of these potted lilies.

A bulb will be given to each member who is paid up by November 1, which will be the last date of entry into the contest.

Mrs. E. W. Hammond was the winner of the special prize for the October monthly competition. This prize was donated by J. E. Boesher.

At the November meeting, L. E. Taylor will donate six Regal Lily bulbs for the best bowl of mixed flowers.

The meeting on November 1 will be known as "Spud Night." A speaker will discuss subjects relative to the potato and a number of other interesting features are being arranged.

J. J. White will give a special prize for the best plate of five potatoes.

COULD NOT SEW A BUTTON ON

Her Hands Were Helpless With Rheumatism

At one time she thought she would lose the use of her right hand. But "a blessing"—in the form of Kruschen Salts—put her right again. "I was sure in a bad state," she writes. "In fact, I could not do my housework. I was bed-ridden with rheumatism in my arms and hands. I could not sleep at night, and I thought I would lose the use of my right hand. I could not hold anything, nor could I sew a button on. My arm would go dead. I was advised to try Kruschen, and inside of three weeks I found such a change. I have kept on taking it, and now I sleep all night—thanks to Kruschen help and relief."—(Mrs. J. H.)

Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts have the power of dissolving uric acid crystals, which are responsible for rheumatic agony. Other ingredients of these salts assist Nature to expel these dissolved crystals through the natural channel.

ASK CHANGE IN HOSPITAL ACT

B.C. Hospitals' Association at Final Session Adopts Important Resolutions

Three important resolutions were adopted by the British Columbia Hospitals' Association at its concluding session here, yesterday.

The first requested amendment to the Hospital Act to require municipalities that do not own or assume any capital obligations for hospitals within or without their borders, to pay $1.25 per patient per day for residents of their municipalities treated in those hospitals to which they at present pay 70 cents per day.

Representations will be made to the Provincial Government to effect such amendment.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION

The association also instructed its executive to urge upon the Provincial Government the necessity of amending the act governing the Workmen's Compensation Board, so that the board be required to pay for all services rendered by hospitals to Workmen's Compensation Board cases ordered by a medical practitioner.

The third resolution set forth that smaller hospitals have been more or less forced to take patients from the Indian, National Defence, and other departments of the Federal Government and other authorities, at a rate below the cost of treatment, and requested the executive of the association to deal with the various departments on behalf of all its members when a request for such intervention was received.

UNEMPLOYED CAMPS

The executive was empowered to negotiate with the Department of National Defence for a uniform and equitable rate for treatment of members of unemployed camps for all member hospitals.

A grant of $200 was made to the Canadian Hospital Association to defray expenses incurred through assumption of new services.

NURSES AND HOSPITALS

Three interesting papers were read at the same session. Miss Helen Randall, R.N., Vancouver, delivered a paper on British Columbia's response to the challenge of the nursing survey; and Miss Grace M. Fairley, R.N., also of the Terminal City, presented recommendations submitted by the Canadian Nurses' Association which affect hospital administration.

A vote of thanks was tendered Hon. E. V. Rhodes, Federal Minister of Finance, for granting exemption of sales tax to hospitals of the Dominion. Thanks were also expressed to the Provincial Government for its action in restoring the annual grant to its original amount, to the convention officials, the Jubilee Hospital board of directors and St. Joseph's Hospital directors and Women's Auxiliary.

On motion of Rev. E. M. Cook, of Chemainus, the convention sent a message to Dr. Malcolme MacEachern, "father of the Hospitals Association."

RATING BUREAU MOVE ENDORSED

Delegates Back From Municipal Convention Tell of General Accord There

Aldermen Andrew McGavin, Walter Luney and T. W. Hawkins, delegates to the Union of British Columbia Municipalities convention, held in Kamloops, returned to the city yesterday, reporting that the convention probably was one of the most important held by the union since its inception.

All the delegates were unanimous on the broader principles contained in the various resolutions, the more important of which dealt with social service questions, provincial grants and better roads.

More specifically the city delegation was interested in the action taken on its motion dealing with fire insurance. With but one dissenting vote, the convention passed a resolution calling upon the Legislature to enact legislation for the purpose of establishing a public rating bureau for fire insurance.

The convention also decided to ask the Government for municipal power to appoint police magistrates and fix salaries. At present the city has to pay the salary of the magistrate, although it has no say as to who the magistrate shall be or what salary he shall receive, Alderman McGavin said.

Alderman McGavin and Alderman Luney led the debate on the insurance question, and secured strong support from other delegates, Alderman McGavin reported.

REDUCE DUTY ON AFRICAN WINES

Canadian Tariff Altered To Give Small Preference Over Products of France

OTTAWA, Oct. 5 (CP).—The Canadian rates of duty on South African wines have been reduced in view of the recent treaty amendments between Canada and France, which lowered the rates on French wines. A memorandum bringing into effect the changes in respect to South African wines from October 1, has been issued by the Department of National Revenue.

The rate on South African wines, except sparkling wines, containing between 35 and 40 per cent proof spirits, has been reduced from 55 cents a gallon to 40 cents. This is also a slight margin below the rate on French wines of corresponding potency.

Victory Gave Canada First Thanksgiving

By JOHN C. SCOTT

Thanksgiving Day in Canada was not always an annual autumn festival or holiday.

At first it was held spasmodically at the whim of the Governor in power, with many of the earlier Thanksgivings proclaimed because of British victories in battle. The principle of national thanksgiving was first recognized in Lower Canada. On December 17, 1798, a proclamation was issued naming January 10, 1799, as a day of thanksgiving because of "the signal victory over our enemy and the manifold inestimable blessings which our Kingdom and provinces have received and daily continued to receive."

On August 1, 1798, Lord Nelson had won his battle with the French at the Nile. Moreover, the American troops which invaded Canada following the battle of the Clouds had been driven back in defeat.

The first recorded proclamation in Upper Canada was dated May 15, 1816. It called for a day of thanksgiving, June 18, for the ending of the war between Great Britain and France. The first Thanksgiving Day in the united provinces of Canada (Ontario and Quebec) was held January 3, 1850, to express "gratitude for His mercies at the cessation of an epidemic." Then on June 4, 1856, thanks was given for the restoration of peace with Russia.

As an annual event expressing "gratitude for an abundant harvest and other blessings," Thanksgiving Day was first held in Canada Thursday, November 6, 1879. Then, as today, the celebration date was not fixed, the day being decided by the Governor-General in Council and a proclamation issued, generally about two months in advance of the date.

After the Great War, Thanksgiving was observed for some years in connection with Armistice Day, November 11. The service men protested strenuously, asserting their desire for an exclusive Armistice Day. Their requests were met at the 1931 session of Parliament, when an act was passed naming November 11 as the annual Remembrance Day. Since then Thanksgiving Day has been held in October, usually on a Monday early in the month.

Thanksgiving Day as a stated appointment for expressing gratitude for material blessings first came to North America with the Pilgrim Fathers. Immediately after their first harvest of 1621, the early settlers of New England set apart a day for thanksgiving. National prominence was given to the festival in the United States by President Abraham Lincoln in 1864, when he proclaimed the "Fourth Thursday in November as Thanksgiving Day." This is still the established day in the United States.

Thanksgiving for harvest blessings is a custom the early Hebrews practiced in their feast of Pentecost and Tabernacles. The latest feast is held at the beginning of the Jewish year, and has just been celebrated by Jews the world over. It is for the purpose of giving thanks for the gathering of the harvest in the autumn.

The custom is recorded in the history of pagan Rome. Thanksgiving observance was continued in the Christian Church.

SAYS BUSINESS ON SAFER BASIS

Ernest E. Shepard, Montreal Publisher of Trade Journals, Lauds Trade Agreements

"Canada is on its way to sounder and safer business conditions," declared Ernest E. Shepard, Montreal, owner of the Shepard Publishing Company, Ltd., and publisher of the trade journals, Canadian Exporter, World Trade and Finance, and L'Exportateur Canadien, in an interview at the Empress Hotel, Thursday night. Mr. Shepard spent the day in conference with heads of local industries and Provincial Government officials.

"Business in the East is getting on its feet again," the visitor explained with enthusiasm, stating that money is again finding its way into circulation. Pulpwood and asbestos manufacturers are enjoying a ready market for their commodities, he explained. He lauded the Imperial trade agreements which were drawn up at Ottawa in 1932, and said they had benefited Canada to a great degree.

"No other part of Canada has developed as British Columbia has done during the past six years," Mr. Shepard said. He added he was pleased with the tremendous strides the province had taken since his last visit to the Coast in 1928.

PLEADS CASE OF VETERANS

General Ross Draws Attention to Growing Problem of Ageing Ex-Soldiers

VANCOUVER, Oct. 5 (CP).—Detailed presentation of the growing problem of providing for the well-being of the rapidly ageing generation of war veterans will be made to Parliament and the Government in the next few months by the Canadian Legion, Brigadier-General Alex Ross, of Yorkton, Sask., Legion president, declared today in addressing the Canadian Club here.

He spoke of the difficulty experienced in persuading those administratively responsible to translate into actual policy the generous intentions of Parliament. He said he hoped that in the near future the pensions administration would be so stabilized as to take care of those injured or incapacitated by disease or service.

DESERVE CONSIDERATION

"No man could go through the war and come out physically as good as he went in," General Ross declared. "We have, however, also, those who served and who today cannot make a living, even though they were not afflicted by specific disabilities incurred on service."

"Suppose normal conditions were to return tomorrow. Where would those burned-out men fit in, when thousands of virile young men are on the unemployed list?"

A recent survey of conditions existing among ex-servicemen in Canada shows that 77,000 veterans are on pension, of which the average man received $220 annually. A man cannot live on that. The average age of these men is forty-seven.

MUST HAVE JUSTICE

"Canada promised to do justice to these men, and justice must be done. The brains of this country are equal to finding a way for them up to the limit of their capacity, without impairing opportunity for youth. It is not enough to give them a pension pittance and send them away to die."

General Ross referred to the forthcoming convention of the British Empire Service League in Australia, at which he will represent the Canadian Legion. He voiced his belief that the hope of preventing another war lies in the strength of the league.

FUNERAL TODAY

A private funeral service will be held, this afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, at Carter's Funeral Home, for the late Duncan Macmillan, who passed away on Thursday. Rev. J. Smith Patterson will officiate and the remains will be laid at rest in Royal Oak Burial Park.

Major Ewan Moore Passes in London

The sudden death, in London, on September 6, of Major A. Ewan Moore, for many years European colonization manager for the Canadian Pacific Railway, is mentioned in the September 15 issue of "Canada," received here yesterday.

Major Moore was widely known in Canada and, prior to his taking office in London, in 1912, he was an official of the Alberta Railway and Irrigation Commission, and afterwards became connected with the Department of Natural Resources of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Major Moore died suddenly while on a visit to his old colleagues in the C.P.R. head offices in London. Funeral services were held under Masonic auspices at Golders Green.

SAFETY DRIVE PLANS ADVANCE

Chief Heatley Is Marshaling Force for Opening of the Campaign Tuesday

Safety Week campaign will officially open on Tuesday, and Police Chief Thomas Heatley and his officers have already commenced their drive to make Victoria "safety conscious."

A stop-and-go signal was installed at the intersection of Yates and Douglas Streets, yesterday, and met with some success, according to Chief Heatley, and will be stationed there for the time being.

The chief declared that he was pleased with the manner in which pedestrians and motorists complied with the signal.

Until electric signals are installed, the chief plans to operate the hand signal at night as well as day through the medium of red and green reflectors attached to the wings of the signal. The reflectors will be cut in the form of the words "stop" and "go," and the first will be red in color and the latter green.

ADDRESSES PUPILS

Sergeant Arthur Bishop delivered an instructive address on safety before the pupils of St. Louis College, yesterday, and was well received.

All next week, Sergeant Bishop will give similar lectures to children in public schools in every part of Victoria.

Everything is in hand to instruct drivers and pedestrians in safety methods. Placards, giving safety pointers, have been prepared and will be posted at the intersections of Douglas and Yates Streets, and Blanshard and Yates Streets, while a number of others will be displayed on police cars.

Sergeant Benjamin Acreman will be in charge of brake testing, and every police officer will be busy giving assistance and instruction to motorists and cyclists on the proper methods of driving and performing hand signals.

WAS BURIED YESTERDAY

The funeral for the late Mrs. Jane McMillan was held Friday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. James Hood conducted an impressive service, and interment was made in the Royal Oak Burial Park. The following acted as pallbearers: Thomas McMillan, William H. Currie, Gordon Rowan, T. McFar, Walter Rowan and Robert Owen.

Noted Divine Delivers Inspiring Address Here

Rev. Dr. Willard Brewing Brings Message of Christian Hope From Tour of Europe—Discusses Many Religious Phases of World Problems

"The world is passing through a terrible fire, and I hope it has reached its deepest depth. In the burning and the crashing of old things, I firmly believe that God will emerge in a purer and even more beautiful form than we have seen Him before."

This was the inspiring message that brought to a close an eloquent address by Rev. Dr. Willard Brewing, of Vancouver, before a large congregation in the Church of Our Lord last night. His address was given during the course of a special Thanksgiving service, for which a beautiful musical programme had been arranged.

People on the North American continent were too prone to view Europe "afar off," regarding the troubles of other parts of the world as things apart that did not concern them. Europe, the speaker said, was viewed as a barbarous portion of the universe, where war clouds always loomed and the people had not yet learned to live in peace. "Certainly there is nothing in the news dispatches to refute these impressions. But these same factitious items should be as a disturbing element to us and bring us to a realization that other persons' troubles also are our concern," the speaker asserted.

LURKING DEMON

"Moving among the people, as I had an opportunity of doing during my recent trip to Europe, I found them very much like ourselves—capable of great good, and with a deep yearning for God in their hearts, yet with a lurking demon in their souls," Dr. Brewing declared. "One of the greatest surprises to me was their sweet reasonableness and gentility. Europe is like a great laboratory, where its experiments with humanity are conducting a great research work, experimenting with governments and mankind in the hope of bringing about some new product. Undoubtedly a new element is being born."

War and depression has cured Europe of pleasure seekers. Anyone who can travel through Europe today without being stirred to his innermost soul is absolutely insensitive. Gone are the days when we can be unconcerned about her troubles. No longer can we nurse to our souls our own individual feelings of salvation and let the rest of the world go by.

"Let England be Christian if she wish. Let Russia be atheistic, but let us have understanding between the various countries. That is the growing attitude of people today," Dr. Brewing declared. "It carries on its face a sweet reasonableness, but the New Testament taught an expanding Christianity and spoke of redemption in the heart."

BATTLE LINE

There was too much of the historic backward look today and not enough of prophetic thought, he said. Christianity today has a far-flung battle line. "In America we find a surfeit of worldlyness arrayed against a small, puritanical group. In Germany we find a protecting Christianity face to face with absolute dictatorship. In Italy Roman Catholicism is in a death grip with Socialism, while in Russia there is a spectacular battle between the most perverted expressions of Christianity and sheer, unadorned atheism. That is the far-flung battle line of the Christian forces. Everywhere one hears that the church is failing and Christianity is gaining. I wonder what church they mean?" the speaker asked.

He put a series of questions and then answered them by saying that he was optimistic enough to believe that the church was an intangible, invisible thing that concealed itself behind all physical churches.

While declaring that he thought England was probably beyond the battle for religious freedom for all time, he added that religion in England was nothing to be overjoyous or complacent about.

REARGUARD ACTION

"The church in Great Britain is holding a rearguard action. It is putting up barriers against intrusions from the world. It is holding tenaciously to the old truths, which are held sacred. It is fighting a rearguard action, and I have been criticized for saying so, but, nevertheless, she is fighting courageously," Dr. Brewing asserted.

"In Europe secular prophets are holding sway and the church is losing its prophetic note. One only has to hear Hitler to be convinced of this. A secular prophet's word is ringing in the ears of every German today. In Russia secular prophets also dominate, and their words are sweeping those of our Lord in millions of ears; yet the Christian church was born in a spirit of prophecy. O God, send our churches a prophet whose voice will ring throughout the world, and sweep the words of secular prophets into oblivion," the speaker appealed.

Touching upon Russia, he denounced the Greek Orthodox church as a contributing factor in the campaign for a Godless Russia. By precept its leaders had invited the contempt of the masses. "You have to deny God to be a Communist, but thank God, there are only 3,000,000 Communists among 160,000,000 persons. Anti-religious museums have been established. A statue of the Virgin has been removed and the words of Lenin blazoned nearby. Its legend is: 'Religion is the opium of the people.'"

THREE HOPE

There was hope for Christianity in Russia, however, the speaker said. Firstly, the great Christian painting, by old masters, had still been left hanging in the museums. Another hope was the remaining number of churches in Russia. In them there was the germ of a newer and better Christianity. The third, and greatest hope, however, was the Christianizing of Russian nations.

"The Russians, having repudiated God and Christ, are laying the foundations of a righteous order. One feels in that country the people's passion for righteousness, equality and humanity," he declared, adding that little could be done with the Christianizing of Russia until the Christian countries had learned more of the spirit of righteousness and Christ.

ASSOCIATIONS AID HOSPITALS

Dr. Harvey Agnew Reviews Conditions Across Canada—Nursing Discussed

The twelve hospital associations in the Dominion were very active and of great benefit to small hospitals, Dr. Harvey Agnew, secretary of the Department of Hospital Service, Canadian Medical Association, told the delegates attending the British Columbia Hospitals Association convention here Thursday. Smaller institutions had the same problems to contend with as the larger ones, and association gatherings were excellent places to pick up new ideas.

Hospitals had cut their expenditures to the limit, said Dr. Agnew, and could not effect further major economies without affecting efficiency of the institutions. If hospitals could not economize, it was, therefore, reasonable to assume that service costs must go up. Many institutions were deferring repairs and replacements, and the personnel could not be expected to carry on for long hours at small wages as heretofore. Private rates would have to be increased or hospitals closed down, he thought, unless private patients were relieved of the responsibility of paying for non-paying ones.

RECOGNITION OF ACCOUNTS

Dr. Agnew reviewed conditions across Canada. Differences between hospitals and municipalities had been ironed out in Saskatchewan. Workmen's Compensation Board cases were quite a problem where a patient from one province was treated in a hospital of another province, and bills were refused payment. There should, he thought, be inter-provincial recognition of such accounts.

Dealing with nursing problems,

Dr. Agnew said there had been a very definite effort on the part of hospitals to reduce the number of nurses in training. Seventy-five per cent of training schools reported a reduced enrollment.

There was a possibility that some hospitals had lost interest in efforts of nursing associations to strike a balance in supply and demand, that economic pressure had induced some institutions to reduce their graduate staffs and go back to training schools methods, and that there had been a stiffening of curricula in different provinces, with a better type of teaching, improvement of equipment and higher entrance requirements.

A rotating list, in some communities, also spread work for nurses who otherwise would be unemployed. Nurse internships had aided many graduate classes over an awkward first year and proved of real value, the delegates were told.

CALL BY DEATH

The death occurred, suddenly, on Thursday, at the family residence, 3002 Chambers Street, of Thomas Cameron Pennie, aged sixty-two years. He was born in Lerwick, Shetland Islands, Scotland, and had been a resident of this city for the past three months.

The remains are resting at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel, where the service will be held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. Dr. W. G. Wilson officiating. Interment will be made in Royal Oak Burial Park.

Insomnia A Sleepless Nightmare

One man says, "I wouldn't mind having insomnia. If I could only sleep well nights." This may be alright as a joke. But what is more distressing than to toss and turn unable to rest and sleep. You think and think and worry and worry. Longing for morning to come. Every sleepless night further exhausts the nerves.

How are you to ever get rid of this condition? There is a way, a very satisfactory way. And that is by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. This tonic treatment puts iron into the blood, and nourishes the nerves back to health. Nearly everybody needs a restorative at this time of year.

Why not benefit by using this time-proven blood-builder.

Little Bedtime Stories

Unc' Billy Possum Thinks It Over

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

It had been a great joke. At least, Unc' Billy had thought so. And now that the joke had been turned back on him, Unc' Billy enjoyed it almost as much as when it was the other way around. You see, it was this way: Smooth-tongued Mr. Mockingbird, who was an old friend and neighbor of Unc' Billy when Unc' Billy lived way down in Old Virginia, had come up to the Green Forest. Nobody saw him come and Mock kept out of sight during the day. Then just for fun he would scream in the night with the voice of Sammy Jay, and everybody thought it was Sammy Jay.

Unc' Billy Possum found him out, and then Unc' Billy had planned a still bigger trick. He had got Mock to hide and then, when other little things were passing, to call mean things, always in a voice that sounded like that of someone else. He made up dreadful stories about everyone but Unc' Billy Possum, and pretty soon none of the little meadow and forest people would speak to anyone but Unc' Billy. Then Bobby Coon had found out all about the trick. He had hurried around to all the little meadow and forest people with a plan to get even with Unc' Billy. All that day Unc' Billy had been around making calls and everybody he had met had turned their back to him.

At first Unc' Billy hadn't known what to make of it, but after thinking it over for a long time and going to see his old friend, Old Mistah Buzzard had advised him to take Mr. Mockingbird around and introduce him to all the little meadow and forest people, but Unc' Billy was afraid that they might not forgive the tricks that Mock had played on them, and then, of course, he couldn't stay in the Green Forest.

So Billy scratched his head and thought and thought

So Unc' Billy scratched his head and thought and thought of how he could get Mock out of the trouble he had got him into. Finally he told all about his troubles to old Mrs. Possum and asked her advice, as he should have done in the first place.

"Serves you'lls right. It certainly do serve you'lls right!" grunted Mrs. Possum, who is so busy looking after her eight lively babies that she has little time for fooling.

"Ah knows it. It certainly does," replied Unc' Billy meekly.

Mischief always trots ahead of grim ol' Mistah Trouble. They look and act enough alike to be each other's double.

Whoever fools with Mischief's gwine to wake some day or other. And find that trouble's just the same as Mischief's own twin brother.

Unc' Billy Possum listened to this just as if he had never heard it before and nodded his head as if he agreed with every word of it. Old Mrs. Possum grumbled and scolded, but all the time she was thinking, and Unc' Billy knew she was. Finally she finished sweeping the doortop and leaned on her broom to look thoughtfully at Unc' Billy.

"Why don't you give a party to Mistah Mockingbird?" she inquired.

"The very thing!" cried Unc' Billy, and like a flash came back his old-time grin.

Marriage Is Solemnized At St. Mark's

The marriage took place at St. Mark's Church, Boleskine Road, on Wednesday evening, when Hazel Georgina, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Cross, Maple Street, became the bride of Mr. Charles Lewis, youngest son of Mrs. R. Lewis, and of the late Mr. Lewis, Graham Street.

The church was beautifully decorated with pink and white asters, Michaelmas daisies and chrysanthemums, the guest pews being marked with clusters of flowers tied with tulle bows. Rev. O. L. Jull officiated.

ATTRACTIVE BRIDE

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Bert Cross, the bride looked most charming in her wedding gown of white satin, made with sleeves puffed to the elbow and finished with long tight cuffs fastened with brilliant buttons. The wedding veil, of silk embroidered net, was attached to a lace cap, held with a circle of orange blossoms, a spray of which had been worn by her mother on her wedding day. Her shower bouquet was of Opheelia roses and white carnations.

Miss Eva Cross, sister of the bride. was the only bridesmaid, wearing a frock of blue organza finished with a pink silk sash. She wore a pink hat, blue mitts and pink sandals and carried a bouquet of pink carnations and chrysanthemums. Mr. Ernest Tidbury was best man. While the register was being signed, Miss Kathleen Clarke sang "Because." The ushers were Mr. William McKinstry and Mr. Jack Clarke.

WEDDING RECEPTION

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, the young couple receiving their guests before the fireplace, which was decorated with yellow dahlias and Michaelmas daisies. The bride's mother wore a smart gown of apple green silk crepe, with a black hat and silver fox fur, and a corsage bouquet of pink roses. The bridegroom's mother wore a gown of silk crepe with cut velvet sleeves and black hat. Her corsage bouquet was of pink carnations.

The buffet supper table was arranged with pink tulle and rosettes, the bride cutting the cake to the accompaniment of the usual toasts. Mr. William Haddington proposed the toast to the bride. Among the wedding gifts was a silver tea service from the Hudson's Bay staff, where the bride was formerly employed, while the groom's associates at the Fairbanks-Morse Company gave them an electric waffle iron and toaster.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis left on the midnight boat for a honeymoon on the Mainland, the bride traveling in a smart brown coat with a wolf collar. They will make their home in Victoria.

Beautiful Portrait Study

Here is a beautiful portrait study of the Countess of Haddington and her infant daughter, Lady Mary Baillie-Hamilton. Lady Haddington is the former Miss Sarah Cook, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Cook, of Montreal. She is also a sister of the Countess of Minto. Lord and Lady Haddington were married in Montreal in 1923, and Mary, their first child, was born this year. They live, for the most part, in Scotland, and in Lord Haddington's lovely Berkshire seat, Mellerstain.

Junior Group Is Organized

The October meeting of the Allies Chapter was held at St. Augustine's Hall, Deep Cove, the acting regent, Mrs. H. C. Layard, presiding. During the holidays, a Children of the Empire Chapter, under the jurisdiction of the Allies Chapter, was organized in North Saanich by Mrs. R. J. Sprott, organizing secretary of Provincial Chapter. Twenty girls signed the roll and applied for a charter.

At a meeting held at Mrs. Freeman King's home on September 20, Supplies of milk for four families in the district had been continued during the Summer, and several parcels containing blankets, warm clothing, etc., had been forwarded to the chapter's "adopted" family at Tupper Creek, Peace River. The treasurer reported the receipt of $143.20 from the house-to-house collection for the Solarium Winter clothing fund.

A letter was received from Miss

Stone acknowledging the gift, and saying that already most of the money had been expended on Winter outfits for the children. A hearty welcome was given to the Provincial president, Mrs. Curtis Sampson, and Miss Crease, who accompanied her. Before reading her report of the annual meeting of National Chapter, Mrs. Sampson presented Mrs. Layard with a life membership in the Allies Chapter, a gift from past and present members, in recognition of her unflinching service in all branches of the chapter's activity. At the close of the report, Mrs. Sampson, on behalf of Mrs. Layard, presented the chapter with a membership roll book.

The indolent young man was courting the daughter of a wealthy manufacturer. The father was inclined to frown upon the affair. One evening he called the young man aside and asked: "Now, how about money? Can you keep going?" The suitor stuttered. "I—I—I'm afraid I can't very well." "Then don't keep coming," said the father.

The home continues to carry on its splendid work, with forty children in residence who are being given every possible substitute for the advantages of a real family life in their own homes.

The president of the ladies' committee is Mrs. V. L. Longstaff, and other members of the executive are as follows: Vice-presidents, Mrs. D. C. Hughes and Mrs. W. F. Fraser; recording secretary, Mrs. J. G. Simpson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. R. T. Elliott, and treasurer, Mrs. F. C. Dillabough.

On the afternoon of the pound party, visitors will, as usual, be given an opportunity to inspect the home, the matron of which is Mrs. N. Harris.

Weddings

HOLE-CADWALLADER

One of Autumn's prettiest weddings took place at Port Hardy, B.C., on September 19, when Frances June, youngest daughter of Mrs. H. T. Cadwallader, of Port Hardy, and of the late Mr. Cadwallader, became the bride of Mr. Frank Lionel Hole, second son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Hole, of Coal Harbor, B.C. The wedding took place in the social hall, which had been decorated by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lynch, friends of the bride and groom, with pink and white streamers, evergreens and lovely Autumn flowers. To the strains of "The Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin," the bride entered the hall with her mother, who gave her in marriage, looking radiant in her lovely gown of white satin, her embroidered net veil held in place by a bandeau of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of pink and white roses. Under a bower of evergreens and white wedding bells, Rev. W. G. Govier, of Port Alice, read the marriage service.

Mrs. C. Ellison was her sister's matron of honor, while Miss Mary Hole, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, and looked charming in a Nile green frock. Miss Gwendoline Hole, younger sister of the groom, and Miss Mary Waller, made two winsome little flower girls in pale yellow frocks. The bride's attendants all carried arm bouquets and wore silver bracelets, gifts from the bride's mother. Mr. H. Cadwallader was best man, Mrs. Ernest Harlan, the organist, played "O Love Divine" during the signing of the register.

Mrs. Hole and Mrs. Cadwallader, mothers of the bride and groom, were hostesses at a reception, the bride's table being centred by a three-tier cake and arranged with vases of white flowers. Mr. Kenneth Hole came from Port Alice for his brother's wedding, and was accompanied by his wife and little son. The bride and groom left to spend their honeymoon in a blue ensemble. On their return, they will live at Coal Harbor and will be "at home" to their friends after November 1.

Are YOU as expert as SHE?

THINK for a minute—what if you had the house to run, meals to plan and children to care for? Do you think you could do the job as well as your wife does? On the same amount of money? Be honest.

The housewives of the nation study and know their jobs. They read the advertisements regularly. They keep themselves informed of the best offerings of the stores. They are expert purchasing agents.

These purchasing agents, from necessity or individual desire, aim to make every dollar spent return a full one hundred cents' worth in value. They know their needs. They know through the advertisements just where these needs can be best supplied at the least cost. Such intelligent buying saves time and effort and money. It results in a management of the home that is truly efficient.

Here's some good advice for all of us. Read the advertisements. Read them every day in The Daily Colonist. Through them we can know exactly what we want before we go to buy. This is the surest way of securing full value for every dollar you spend.

ENDING SIXTH YEAR IN CITY

Rev. F. W. McKinnon to Celebrate Anniversary at Douglas Street Church

Services of thanksgiving and anniversary will be blended tomorrow at Douglas Street Baptist Church, with the celebration of the coming six years ago, of Rev. F. W. McKinnon to the pastorate of this congregation.

During his pastorate the membership of the congregation has doubled and is now in a thriving condition. The Sunday school is growing rapidly and has an enrolment of more than 150. Other happy features of the Douglas Street work are a young people's society, with a membership of thirty, and a large C.G.I.T. club.

Mr. McKinnon came to this city in 1928 from Vernon, where he had been pastor for five years. He received his training at Brandon College, Brandon, Manitoba, which is affiliated with McMaster University, now of Hamilton, Ont., and was ordained in 1912.

His first charge was the Kildonan Baptist Church. A new church was built during his pastorate of five years. For the following eight years Mr. McKinnon was superintendent of the Boys' Industrial School at Portage la Prairie. After a brief ministry at Nacrau Baptist Church, Winnipeg, he moved to Vernon.

BIBLE SCHOOL TO BEGIN NEW YEAR

Rev. J. R. Rowell Will Open Christian Workers' Bible Classes on Tuesday, October 16

The Victoria Bible School, which will commence its fourth year on Tuesday, October 16, will be conducted according to the principles and methods adopted by the "Union Bible Classes" of the Pacific Coast.

Recently, the pastor of the Central Baptist Church, Rev. J. B. Rowell, took part in the Bible conference held at Lake Sammamish, near Seattle, at which Dr. Lewis Sperry Chaffer and Rev. Jack Mitchell were among the principal speakers. During this conference a special rally was held of fundamentalist pastors and Christian workers of the Pacific Northwest, at which Mr. Rowell gave his impressions as to the practical results of Bible teaching. Bible school work and reaching the people with the word of God was the subject of discussion.

The policies endorsed at this conference will be followed at the Christian Workers' Bible Classes, which will be held in the Central Baptist Church each Tuesday evening from 7:30 to 9:30 o'clock, commencing October 16. These classes are solely for teaching the word of God and will have no denominational coloring. Everyone will be free to take full advantage of this course in Bible teaching without any interference with present church affiliation.

"Unreality" Is Subject Tomorrow

"Unreality" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, October 7. The golden text is, "All that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, and the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world. And the world passeth away, and the lust thereof; but he that doeth the will of God abideth forever" (I John ii, 16, 17).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Vanity of vanities, saith the preacher, vanity of vanities; all is vanity" (Ecc. i, 2). The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook: "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mortals must look beyond ending, finite forms if they would gain the true sense of things" (p. 264).

The evening there will be a thanksgiving song service, the choir rendering special music suited to the occasion, and the congregation joining in old thanksgiving hymns. There will be no sermon at the evening service, the message coming through the medium of praise.

The young people have planned a hike and picnic to a neighboring mountain for Monday forenoon, to take the place of the regular meeting, which would have come in the evening had it not been for the holiday.

This being the nearest Sunday, the church of St. George will hold services with special reference to this movement.

At 11 o'clock Holy Eucharist will be celebrated, and at 7:30 the service will consist of a special prayer for animals. FACES CHARGE OF CONTEMPT

John Caird Refuses to Reveal Origin of Articles Sold Under Assumed Name

John Caird, in the city police court yesterday morning, refused to reveal to the court where he had obtained articles which he had disposed of to the Pacific Gold Smelting Company on various occasions. He was, thereupon, on the request of the city prosecutor, C. L. Harrison, remanded until this morning to allow him to reconsider his action, which placed him in the position of having committed contempt of court.

Charged a few days ago with having had in his possession a ring belonging to Mrs. L. S. V. York, which he sold to the gold company for $1.40, knowing the same to have been stolen, Caird, who gave his age as eighteen years, admitted, when the case was resumed yesterday, that he had obtained the ring from Gordon Garrett, afterwards selling it under the name of Don Sutherland.

IDENTIFIED RING

Before the accused was called to the witness stand by his counsel, P. J. Sinnott, L. S. V. York had identified the ring as having belonged to his wife and of having a sentimental value, as it had been his mother's. There were other things taken from the house, which had been ransacked between September 21 and 25 while Mr. and Mrs. York were away. The back door bolt had been forced to gain entrance.

K. A. McLeod and Miss L. Mc-

Leod, of the gold company, testified that there had been dealings with one who gave the name of Don Sutherland. They produced the book required to be kept with entries of all purchases, which showed this name. The ring in question had been bought from him. Neither of the witnesses were prepared to swear positively that the accused was the person, although they believed he was.

Detective Henry Jarvis testified to having requested the accused to go with him to the police office on Saturday evening, September 30, because he had reason to believe that Caird was the Don Sutherland who sold the ring. Detective Fearon Woodburn also testified to examining the accused.

Detective Jarvis said the youth admitted that he had sold the ring. Miss McLeod had been brought to the station and identified the accused as the Don Sutherland she knew in connection with transactions. Following that, the accused was placed under arrest.

ACCUSED TESTIFIES

When Mr. Sinnott asked for the discharge of the accused, asserting there was no evidence upon which to convict, the magistrate said he felt there was a case to meet. Both the McLeods had testified they thought the youth was the man who sold them the ring.

The accused was called and testified that he met Garrett on the street on Sunday night, September 23. Garrett showed him a ring, which he said he had found on the street. Garrett did not think the ring worth much, which was agreed to by accused, who said he asked Garrett to give it to him. On Monday morning he went to the gold company and received $1.40 for it. Accused said he did not know the ring was stolen at the time.

Cross-examined by Mr. Harrison, the accused stated he had had dealings with the gold company four or five times. The gold he sold there was obtained from certain people who would not like to have their names revealed.

SUSPECTED POLICE

He had sold under the name of Don Sutherland because he knew the police "did not like him" and would make trouble if they knew he was selling. Persisting in his reluctance to give the names of those from whom he obtained the articles sold, he told Mr. Harrison the people would not want their names dragged into the court.

Mr. Harrison then demanded that the names be revealed, and appealed to the court in the matter.

The magistrate said the accused must answer. When he further objected to giving the information sought, Mr. Harrison suggested that the practice of allowing the accused to reconsider and to consult his counsel might be allowed before proceeding for contempt of court.

After consulting Mr. Sinnott, the accused still refused to give the names, and on the suggestion of Mr. Harrison, a remand was granted until today to allow him to reconsider his stand on the matter.

Canary Braves Prairie's Rigors

REGINA, Oct. 5 (CP).—Canada's hardest canary flew from its cage on a farm, ten miles northeast of Regina, over a month ago. Winds blew, snow fell, and the mercury dived down almost to zero during that time.

Pounded sitting on the back of a car at a filling station, a mile north of the city, it was claimed by Miss Edith Antiknap, at the police station, where it was chirping from a cardboard box.

Today it was reported to be thin, but still with a chirp or two left and ready to tackle a bit of apple.

LIFE SAVED BY PROMPT ACTION

Physician Brings Baby Into World Ten Minutes After Mother's Death

OAKLAND, Cal., Oct. 5 (AP).—A baby born ten minutes after the death of her mother, Mrs. Ellen Lewis, thirty-five, of Oakland, today gave promise of living a normal life span. The unusual birth occurred last Sunday, but only became known today. Had Mrs. Lewis lived, the baby would have been born in about three weeks' time. The woman was stricken with severe headache last Sunday, and Dr. Robert J. McIvor ordered her at once to a hospital. In the hospital, Dr. McIvor began his examination. Before he had finished his diagnosis, Mrs. Lewis died and an autopsy disclosed a brain hemorrhage as the cause. For four frantic minutes Dr. McIvor struggled to revive the woman. Then he called for surgical instruments.

The doctor worked quickly, and performed a post mortem operation. Six minutes after he began, he held an apparently dead, seven-pound, thirteen-ounce baby in his hands. After twenty minutes of artificial respiration, the little girl began breathing normally, and hospital attendants said today that she was doing well.

"Well, you ain't made this hand very beautiful, miss."

"You see, I just do manicures, not operations."

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"BENJAMIN'S MESS"

"I would like to know the meaning and the origin of the expression 'Benjamin's Mess,' which I ran across in an old book recently," inquires a reader.

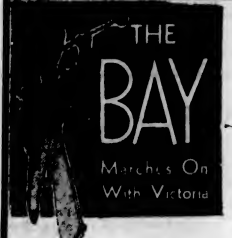

"Benjamin's Mess" is a metaphorical phrase, not met with to any extent today, which refers to the largest share of any division—as the winnings of a pool or the profits of a joint venture, or the proceeds of any group distribution.

The expression is a biblical allusion to the incident set forth in Chapter xliii of the Book of Genesis. In this chapter is described the hospitality extended by Joseph to his brothers, and especially his liberality to Benjamin, who was his favorite.

"Benjamin's Mess" is a paraphrase of words of the last verse of the chapter referred to:—"And he sent portions unto them from before him; but Benjamin's portion exceeded the portions of all of them five-fold."

All I can say is that I would back my car against any other of its size on the road.—Weekly paper.

All we can say is that he wouldn't do it twice if the owner caught him at it.

What Today Means

"LIBRA"

If October 6 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11:10 a.m. to 1:10 p.m., from 3:10 to 5:10 p.m., and from 8:10 to 10:10 p.m. The danger periods are from 9:10 to 11:10 a.m. from 5:10 to 7:10 p.m., and from 10:10 p.m. until midnight.

On this October 6 be careful that in trying to oblige a friend you do not jeopardize your personal interests. If through a desire to please one person you knowingly give of time to another, there is a very good possibility that the only one to lose out eventually will be yourself. It might prove advisable to be very cautious of strangers on this date, especially if there is an exchanging of money taking place. You may be placed in a position where you will be given the opportunity of greatly increasing your popularity by seizing the chance of doing a kindly act. Some friends may find it an enjoyable pastime to tear to shreds a mutual acquaintance's reputation. You can display excellent judgment if you refrain from joining in this malicious form of gossip, which may reach the victim's ears. If invited to a social affair, you may earn your host's gratitude if you put yourself out trying to co-operate in helping to keep the other guests entertained and being agreeable to everyone. Married and engaged couples, as well as those seeking someone to "cherish and obey," will have a more harmonious day if they will refrain from trying to force their adored one to express an opinion on any subject that they may display a reluctance to express themselves on. If a woman, and October 6 is your natal day, you may greatly advance your interests if you are a little more inclined to take the initiative. Do not depend on other people for advice or guidance. You have more than enough mentality to enable you to formulate your own plans. If you will cultivate the habit of using your own judgment in important matters, you may be surprised to see how readily you can overcome what appears to be obstacles. Love may help you find a solution to all your problems. Marriage is the logical life for you.

The child born on October 6 usually, when it reaches its teens, has a remarkable ability for self-expression. It should possess very logical and sound reasoning powers. If a man, and October 6 is your birthday, you may be inclined to defer too much to the wishes of others. Be aggressive, regardless of what others may counsel, when you feel it is right that you should be. If you will develop your own personality and impress it on those with whom you come into contact, you may surprise yourself with your accomplishments. If you marry, you may find it advantageous to discuss your problems, as well as your successes, with your wife. More marriages are wrecked on the rock of secretiveness than anything else. So if you are wise, steer your matrimonial bark clear of this destructive obstacle.

Twins arrived during the night. The next morning the father said to Freddie: "You needn't go to school today. You can tell teacher tomorrow that you have two baby brothers."

But Freddie had a still better idea. "I know what I'll do, dad," he said. "I'll tell teacher I've got one baby brother, and then next week I can stay at home again and tell her I've got another."

SINGING PLAYER AT THE CAPITOL

Grace Moore Plays Lead in "One Night of Love"—Strong Supporting Cast

Precedent was set among Hollywood picture players when the entire working crew—thirty of them—received treasured gifts from the star of a Columbia picture, completed after seven weeks' hard work. Never before has a star been so lavish—the bill totalled around $2,500—just to show her appreciation of all their efforts.

Grace Moore, stage, screen and radio songstress, radiated her own joyousness in the keen zest of giving when she surprised her hard working crew on the final day of shooting "One Night of Love." Her director, Victor Scherzinger, received a beautiful radio; his assistants handsome gold and silver cocktail shakers; her hairdresser sported a beautiful, modernistic wrist watch; and twenty-two electricians, cameramen and grips found themselves slipping into handsome leather gloves.

Such is the bubbling girliness of this new screen star, whose exuberant personality dazzles and captivates audiences in this exotic romantic production, "One Night of Love," featuring Tullio Carminati, glamorous screen lover; the ravishing newcomer from Australia, Mona Barrie; dashing Lyle Talbot; and the pert little comedienne, Nydia Westman, is showing today at the Capitol Theatre.

EMPIRE The appearance of the Theatre during the last two days has been extremely successful and large and enthusiastic audiences have attended the various performances and have given warm reception to the various artists. There is plenty of life and color to this revue and some clever comedy, staged in really professional manner. The dainty little negro maids, who sing and dance are extremely good, as are the male tap dancers, who perform difficult steps in amazing style.

DOMINION Back alive from the jungle wars, Frank Buck is almost the whole show in his new picture, "Wild Cargo," now at the Dominion Theatre. Mr. Buck, with one close escape after another, always gets his man—an orangutan, a rare made Indian rhinoceros, a tiger which he craves in a trap, a king cobra, a thirty-foot python, tapira, leopards, black panther—in fact, he runs the gamut of the jungle with his bolts, nets, traps, snares, pits and his own wits and mits.

PLAYHOUSE Georgia Caine has an important role in "I Am Suzanne" in which Producer Jesse L. Lasky is featuring Lillian Harvey and Gene Raymond for Fox Film. It is now showing at the Playhouse Theatre. A native of San Francisco, Miss Caine was starred on Broadway for several seasons by George M. Cohan. She is best remembered for her work in the author-actor's "The Homelovers."

AMUSEMENTS

On the Stage

Empire—"Dark Town Strutters."

On the Screen

Capitol—"Grace Moore in 'One Night of Love.'"

Columbia—"Here Comes the Groom," starring Jack Haley.

Donation—"Frank Buck's 'Wild Cargo.'"

Playhouse—"I Am Suzanne," featuring Lillian Harvey.

"CHU CHIN CHOW" IS BILLED FOR CAPITOL

For the Capitol Thanksgiving Eve show, starting at 12:05 early Monday morning, a special programme has been arranged, the highlight of which will be the premiere showing of the big musical comedy extravaganza, "Chu Chin Chow." George Robey is in his element as All Babi in "Chu Chin Chow," the Gainsborough picture which brings to the screen the wartime musical spectacle which packed His Majesty's Theatre for four years. His sudden rise to affluence is the outcome of visits to the robbers' cave, where he met with fright, adventure and abundant wealth. The Prime Minister of Mirth of the variety stage adds to his considerable reputation by his delightful portrayal of a woodcutter suddenly translated to the status of a rich merchant.

NEGRO REVUE FOR MIDNIGHT MATINEE

A special midnight matinee, in celebration of the Thanksgiving holiday week-end, will be held at the Empire Theatre at 12:05 a.m. Monday. Doors will open promptly at midnight and the performance will commence within five minutes. Stars from "The Darktown Strutters," who have been attracting large audiences to the Empire Theatre since they made their first Victoria appearance Thursday afternoon, have been picked to present this special midnight matinee. The numbers offered will be entirely different to any given on the regular programmes. There will be plenty of music and fun and a really entertaining and smart show, similar to ones presented in New York, will be given the local audience.

At a dog show a lady was negotiating the purchase of a pup, bred from prize parents. "The parents of this dog," said the owner proudly, "were never beaten, m'am."

"Dear me," exclaimed the lady, "what well-behaved dogs they must have been; I'll take the pup."

REPORTS SHOW SUCCESSFUL YEAR

Election of Officers of Comox Agricultural and Industrial Association Postponed Two Weeks

COURTENAY, Oct. 5.—The annual meeting of the Comox Agricultural and Industrial Association, held in the Agricultural Hall, on Thursday night, was adjourned without deciding on the future course of the association and before the election of officers for the coming year. Reports were received from President L. B. Plumby, Secretary E. F. Thomas and Treasurer J. H. MacIntyre. These reports showed that under difficult circumstances, a successful year had terminated with the Fall Fair on Labor Day. All expenses for the year had been met and the association had finished up with a bank balance of over $30 after paying all prizes in full. In spite of the fact that the annual meeting had been advertised, there was only some twenty present. A number of the directors were absent. Owing to this lack of interest, it was decided to postpone the election of officers until October 18, when the meeting will be resumed.

DEATH ON THE DIAMOND

BY CORTLAND FITZSIMMONS

CHAPTER XXX

"Is it the pigeon?" Pietro asked.

"I don't know," Terry said.

Every eye in the stand was on the bird as it swept over the diamond in a wide circle. It hovered for a moment and then started a downward swoop toward Larry. Terry dug his fingers into Pietro's arm until the lad cried out from pain. Two men unobserved by the spectators or players edged over the sidelines beyond third base. The pigeon kept swooping down.

"Kelly's muffed it!" Terry cried.

But at that moment there was a shot, the bird seemed to pause in its flight, then fell like a plummet. There was a gasp of horror from the stands and then men were running onto the field in every direction. Larry was on the ground, flat on his face. Terry could stand it no longer. He broke from hiding and ran onto the field.

Kelly was there before him. Terry rushed to the diamond.

There was a commotion in the press box and on the diamond. Reynolds was struggling to break away from the two men who were holding him fast. Larry was slowly rising to his feet, brushing the dust from his knees, then he scrambled back to third base. He grinned sheepishly at Terry.

The crowd was in an uproar, surging against the line of police and trying to break through. The loudspeakers boomed over the field and the great voice caught and held the attention of the crowd.

"Some one shot a pigeon. There is nothing to fear. The game will go on." The man at the microphone kept repeating that message until the crowd quieted down. When there was something resembling order the voice resumed. "The game will go on, with a slight change in the New York line-up."

There was no interest in the game. Every man and woman there knew that drama had passed before their eyes. They wanted to know what had happened. The game went on and the field maintained their lead.

Kelly led the way from the field. The two men, still holding Reynolds, the Blues manager, in the clubhouse. Terry, with Pietro in tow, made up the rear of the procession as it trailed off the field. The Washington chief of police, with Sid Reynolds handcuffed and under guard, was already there waiting. The men who were leading Reynolds, the player, flung him into a chair. They were defiant, both of them.

"Is this some of your front-page stuff?" Sid Reynolds asked Terry with a sneer.

"I wouldn't talk if I were you," Terry said quietly.

"You haven't got anything on us!" he screamed back at him. "Keep your advice until I ask for it!"

Terry shrugged and turned to Kelly. "Did you find anything on him?" pointing toward Sid's player brother.

Kelly produced a small round tube not much bigger than an ordinary soda straw and handed it to Terry. "I found two poisoned darts, too. He had them in a little tin box and was trying to dig them into the ground with his toe when we grabbed him. He was all ready to send one of them into Doyle when we shot the pigeon."

"What is the matter with him?" "He said he thought he had a touch of Summer complaint."

"Then it was sudden and unexpected. He hasn't complained before."

"No. He even said he would try to play, but I didn't think it advisable. He thought it was something he had eaten, melons or something like that. He looked pretty green."

"I thought so. Thanks," Terry turned to the officers guarding the two men. "Take them away."

"Tell us how you ran this thing to earth, Burke," Athone suggested after the Reynolds brothers were led away.

There was a chorus of agreement. "You tell them," Terry turned to Kelly.

"I'll tell them nothing; it was your idea. Go on, now. God knows, you're not shy."

There was a chuckle at that and Terry plunged into his story.

"At first I believed it was a gang of crooks operating in a big way. I believed that up until the time Scotty was killed in St. Louis. The other murders had been smart, but that one was a little too good."

"But when did you first begin to suspect Reynolds?" Larry asked.

"I don't know just when it started, guess it began to lurk in the back of my mind in St. Louis. Craven and I were the only men who were in Scotty's death and yet Reynolds beat me with a story to his Brooklyn paper. I didn't think about it very much at first, but it kept coming back to me."

"When I called the press box, Mullins answered me and he didn't know about Scotty, yet Reynolds had a beat on the story. As time went on it became more and more obvious that the person or persons planning these crimes was on the inside of the baseball game. The crimes denoted a keen understanding of the game and a knowledge that the ordinary person couldn't have. It was hard to give up the gang idea, however."

"When the jigsaw puzzle was sent to Scotty, it was addressed to his room number and all. Why was it put on?" The person sending the puzzle wanted it delivered without delay. I didn't fall for a trap that was set for me in St. Louis; Reynolds was the man who showed surprise when I rejoined them for a drink."

"Early in the season Reynolds denied any knowledge of the odds being given on the Blues, yet he was constantly at Murallo's. It was his hangout and you can't know those people without hearing something about bets and betting. Most men know the odds; it's a part of the game. I didn't, because I hadn't read Joe Veeder's column that day. Kelly nodded agreement to the statement."

"In Chicago Reynolds was with us after the game when we rode back to the hotel. We talked over the Chicago situation pretty thoroughly and all agreed that Rawlins was the most important man left in the Chicago outfit. That day's game proved that without Rawlins the team was not up to snuff. It was rather evident that the murderers had been thinking in terms of players and not managers. As soon as Rawlins importance was pointed out to Reynolds, Rawlins was killed."

"I was warned to keep quiet after the Boston affair. Why wasn't I killed as Stream, the gunman who wrecked the taxi, was killed? They weren't afraid of me, but they weren't sure. I was visited by three men in my apartment and left bound and gagged with threats of further violence. Why? They wanted the thing to look like a real gang affair. A gang wouldn't have gone to all that trouble. I'd have been shot and that would have been the end of me."

Alice shivered.

"Reynolds and all the other newspaper men knew that I had been called to New York to the conference of owners. I began a campaign then to try to draw attention to me. I wrote articles, pretended to know more than I myself, actually knew, but nothing happened. A gang would have finished me off without any delay after that. I convinced Kelly that the crimes were too imaginative to have been done by a gang. He finally believed me and was very patient with me."

"It was hard to keep my hands off last night, though, with the young lady begging me to do something," Kelly cut in.

"In Cleveland I was almost certain my suspicions were right. When we were standing at the counter eating hot dogs, Reynolds moved over to the counter and was the person who was nearest to the mustard pot that Planer used. I was sure that Reynolds could have dropped the poison into the mustard to figure out the puff of smoke seen out on the diamond. When Planer was taken sick, I was certain, but how to prove it? We were all near enough to have done it."

"You are sure these brothers are the ringleaders in the plot?" Athone asked.

"Positive. They have had accomplices and we will be able to round them up. The Maryland state police have the man who guarded Pietro. There were at least two others. There had to be a man in Cleveland to throw that thing out in the field. There was a man to shoot Whipple—it was probably Stream. I don't know who substituted for Pietro to kill Durkin, but I think we will be able to find out. I've no idea who killed Rawlins, but it must have been one or the other of those. Perhaps both, although the maid said she saw only one man."

"I was afraid Doyle would be the next victim, but I had no idea what would be done. When the pigeon whistled, I felt certain that it was to be used in some way to bring about Doyle's death, but how?"

Then I was tricked into thinking that Miss Andrews had been captured and was in danger. I didn't stop to think I rushed out and did exactly what she told me to do. I played into their hands."

"I was taken to their hide-out and there I found Pietro, who helped me to get away. From the conversations Pietro had overheard, I knew I was on the right track. They were going to use the pigeon to give some one a chance to kill Doyle. It was a close squeak for you, Larry. In another second or two he would have blown one of those darts into you, concealed the pipe and no one would have been the wiser. The chances were one in a million that anyone would have been looking at either Reynolds or Doyle down there on the field. They would have been watching the pigeon. It was a good idea for distracting attention. I had no idea how they would attempt the murder. Turner's illness gives us, I think, the last clue. I feel certain Turner was given something last night that would make him ill. A stomach analysis will probably bear me out in this."

"There can be no question about their guilt," Athone said. "They were caught red-handed."

"But what would they have gained for all of this?" Frances asked.

"Money," Pop answered sadly.

"They have probably put every cent they could scrape together on the Blues to win at long odds. They put it up in small bets. Sid had a hundred at Murallo's in his own name and he denied all knowledge of the odds."

"And the question now is," Athone said with a sly look at Pop Clark, "who will win the series?"

"I threw today's game," Pop reported, "but you'll have to fight for the next three."

"May the best team win," Kelly said, with no sense of his triteness. "I feel all in," Larry said. "I guess I need a shower to sort of buck me up."

"Poor dear," Frances whispered in his ear; "it must have been an awful strain for you thinking you would be next."

He gave her hand a squeeze.

The group broke up gradually. Terry had his arm about Alice and Larry was looking down into Frances' happy eyes. Pop stood up and walked over to Larry.

"Do you think you'd like to play on the Blues again next year?" he asked.

Larry was embarrassed and showed it.

Before he could answer, Pop went on, "I'd like to have Frances as close to me as possible."

It was his way of burying the hatchet.

Fire Halts Work At Logging Camp

DUNCAN, Oct. 5 (CP).—Camp of the Mount Sicker Logging Company, at Mount Sicker, has been closed for several days because of a fire, of unknown origin, which destroyed a loading derrick, two logging cars and some felled and bucked timber.

E. W. Munn, official of the company, reported that quick action on the part of the crew prevented further damage.

Hubbard Expedition Finds Volcanic Isle Where It Should Be

Famous "Disappearing Island" Located Four Miles South of Position Shown on Chart—Haunt of Enormous Sea Lions

Chartered by Father Hubbard, the "Glacier Priest," the fishpacker Amelie, Captain A. E. Olsen, has been under way a total of 450 hours since the middle of August, in which time she has traversed fully 3,000 miles of Alaskan waters and visited many interesting places. She arrived here Thursday evening, from the North, and will proceed tomorrow, to Seattle, where the members of the expedition will disembark.

Aboard the Amelie, yesterday, Captain Olsen related some of the interesting experiences members of the party encountered during the summer, and described a number of the localities visited. The party had no difficulty in locating Bogoslov Island, referred to for years as the "Disappearing Island," only it is not exactly on the spot indicated on the chart, being actually four miles south and one mile east of its charted position. Its exact location is: Latitude, 53 degrees 50 minutes north; Longitude, 168 degrees, 10 minutes west.

FOUND ANCHORAGE
Showing no anchorage in its vicinity, Captain Olsen stated that soundings were made in several places, but no bottom was found at the party encountered during the summer, and described a number of the localities visited. The party had

CIVIL ACTION IS PERMITTED
His Lordship Allows Attorney-General to Be Represented in Case

Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald, in the Supreme Court here yesterday granted leave to H. W. Davey, acting for J. R. Brown and his wife, to take civil proceedings against J. William Maynard, in connection with alleged fraud.

On the objection being raised by A. J. Patton as solicitor for Mr. Maynard that with a criminal action already set down for trial in connection with the same transaction there was the possibility of his client's case being prejudicially affected by the civil proceedings if allowed to go on, His Lordship stated that leave should not be granted to examine Mr. Maynard under oath in the civil matter until the criminal case was disposed of.

REQUEST TO INTERVENE
C. H. O'Halloran, for the Attorney-General, appeared also in the proceedings yesterday on a request to intervene when Mr. Davey proposed to invoke the provisions of the Land Registry Act assurance fund which he claimed would apply in this instance. The assurance fund is created, it was set out by Mr. Davey, for the purpose of providing a means for reimbursing one where there had been a breach of trust or fraud perpetrated in connection with the registration of property. He set out that in this case there had been such a violation which brought it within the provisions requiring reimbursement of his client from the assurance fund, if redress were not obtained from Mr. Maynard.

The court held that the whole matter was open to be adjudicated upon and allowed "the Attorney-General's department to intervene in protection of the assurance fund as requested by Mr. O'Halloran."

"The fact that I am a good musician," said a lady, "was the means of saving my life during the flood in our town a few years ago."

"How was that?" asked the young lady who sang.

"Well, when the water struck our home, my husband got on the folding bed and floated down the street till rescued."

"And what did you do?"

"Why, I accompanied him on the piano."

PROPOSING TO LIMIT TREATY

Uniform Global Tonnage System for Navies Excludes France and Italy

The uniform global tonnage system which the Japanese Government will reportedly propose as a substitute for the ratio system in the preliminary naval conversations in London, which will be resumed this month, is meant to apply only to the three major naval powers—Great Britain, the United States and Japan—and not to Italy, the Tokyo Yomiuri reports.

The authorities of the Japanese Foreign Office are represented as of the opinion that any attempt to apply it to all five powers would make agreement difficult, for geographical factors make Great Britain's naval relations with France and Italy complex.

If the report is true, the Japanese argument that the feeling of security is dependent on the right of equality of armaments, which should be denied to no country, loses force. If France and Italy are to be refused equality with Great Britain because of political and geographical factors, the way is open for Great Britain and the United States to maintain that Japan does not need equality with them.

EARLY IN NOVEMBER
The Chugai Shogyo reports that Japan's new naval plan is likely to be presented in the London conversations early in November, immediately following the preliminary talks.

Also understood is announcement of a desire to terminate the Washington Naval Treaty will be made just before this. The accuracy of this, however, for officials have stated that acceptance of the Japanese plan would make individual notification of abrogation unnecessary and that the decision on abrogation will therefore be held in abeyance until after the fate of the plan can be ascertained.

The Japanese Foreign Office spokesman told newspapermen that there is to be closer co-operation between the foreign and navy ministries in publicity on the naval question and guidance of public opinion regarding it in Japan. According to Asahi, the spokesman met with the officials concerned of the war and navy ministries, and they will continue to meet every week until further notice, making regular statements as to progress.

Security Prices Surge Ahead at New York Mart

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 (AP).—Bullish sentiment stirred financial markets, and stocks stepped out of a rut into a lively advance. Trading in stocks was the most active since August 22. Turnover totalled $72,190 shares.

Motor, merchandise, liquor and other industrial groups were in brisk demand.

The California stocks rallied. Seaway Stocks, California Packing, Standard Oil of California, Southern Pacific and Union Oil regained fractions to more than a point of their losses.

Chrysler, General Motors, National Distillers, Air Reduction, Corn Products and Columbia Carbide sold up for net gains of 1 to about 2 points.

The bond market gained some of its optimism today, coincident with a substantial rally in stocks. Ralls gained 1 to 2 points.

The foreign list was up fractionally.

Virginia Vane Says:

COURSE OF TRUE LOVE MUST SETTLE DOWN INTO RUNNING SMOOTH EVENTUALLY

Dear Miss Vane: My girl and I have been going together for two years. During that time we have quarreled constantly. She is jealous and I will admit I have been suspicious of her on occasion and have had reason to be.

She is arrogant and likes her own way. Perhaps this is also true of me, but I have consciously tried to give in and keep peace and I don't believe she ever has made such an effort.

What worries me is our constant strife. How can we be happy after marriage, if we're going on this way? We keep breaking off our wedding plans, because of these senseless quarrels. Can you tell me whether you think we have a chance for happiness.—T.T.

On the theory that true love never runs smooth, you have a Class "A" opportunity to make your lives together love's young dream. But on the basis of everyday common sense your chances for success are not too high.

You see all young people quarrel—because they're in love. That's perfectly normal and we expect it. They rave and rant, reach heights of ecstasy one minute and plunge into deepest gloom the next. They suffer tortures of suspicion and jealousy over absolutely nothing at all. They hurl accusations at each other which make them blush for shame a few minutes later. They in short, behave like perfect idiots and no one blames them and everyone says quite happily and complacently, "Bless the darlings! They're in love."

But what the old sentimentalists and the young idiots don't realize is that perpetual quarreling over a period of two years is bound to do something drastic to anybody's state of mind. Two people who are found at the end of a long courtship quarreling fiercely about exactly what caused their first argument—are not learning lessons calculated to make them successful at matrimony. Love—real love—teaches patience and tolerance after a while. The boy and girl who are learning to think for each other and to protect each other try to stop the quarreling habit after a while.

That is my chief reason for concern over your case, T.T. Either you or your lady love must be trained to end warfare. Somewhere, one or both of you is lacking in the kind of devotion which seeks for better understanding of the loved one.

If you two could talk it over, I'm sure you'd find out where you're both going wrong. You can yet save your love from shipwreck, but you must get to work before perpetual warfare has ruined the nerves and minds of both of you.

Constant irritation and suspicion can end a love affair as effectively as a determined sweetheart-snatcher. If you saw another man angling for your girl, you'd deal with him summarily, wouldn't you? Well, get ready for some stringent dealing with the quarreling menace which is overshadowing your romance.

APPEAL TO LAW MAY SOBER HUSBAND

C.L.: It is always hard to suggest to a young wife that she employ legal assistance to aid her in dealing with her own husband—but that is exactly what you must do in this case, C.L.

You see, as things now stand your life has been reduced to a formula, and your husband has accepted that formula as the natural way of living.

You eat very little, you are permitted no particular comforts, you do your housework and you wait patiently to see whether or not your lord and master will come home sober enough to have no intention of beating you up. In the event of his not being sober enough, you're cruelly used—as a result of which you leave your husband for a while, only to forgive him and come back to him in the end.

And in the meantime he is using money to which you have some claim, to keep himself provided with alcohol. You are, in short, being gradually deprived of the necessities of life in order that your husband may indulge in the one habit which is ruining your home.

And your husband has grown used to the whole situation—the drunken spree, the tears, the wifely leave-taking, and the subsequent forgiveness and reconciliation.

There is nothing in all this to stir him up, or to awaken him to any real sense of shame or remorse. He must be made to listen to reason and since you have not been able to win him with kindness or devotion, you may have to seek legal advice.

You are entitled to some support from your husband and at the moment you are receiving almost none. If this fact were made clear to him, I think your better half would try to struggle out of the rut in which he's been living so comfortably for a number of years.

He may also resent bitterly your taking legal action against him, but his resentment may be a healthier sign than the fake affection and penitence he's been showing for five years. It seems as though he needed a sudden shock to make him behave like a sane human being again. Give him something to worry about—and ask in a businesslike way for what is his rightful due.

I believe that the effect will be beneficial—not only on your own mental and financial outlook, but on the man who has let a bad habit make him a thoughtless brute.

SCHOOL SOUGHT IN BAY REGION

Need Stressed by Residents of Cadboro Bay to Saanich
Board Members

Because lack of school facilities in the area was hindering the school work of children as well as forcing a depreciation on property, a delegation representing 95 per cent of the taxpayers in Cadboro Bay Thursday night urged Saanich School Board to erect a school there.

William Inglis, chairman of the Cadboro Bay school committee, and spokesman for the delegation which interviewed the board, pointed out that some seventy-six children from the district attend municipal schools. The children were carried to their schools by buses, at a cost of $220 per month to ratepayers.

"Why, people won't move in there any more because there is nowhere to send the kiddies for schooling," stated Mr. Inglis. "The bus transportation is not very satisfactory, either," he declared.

Trustee Walter P. Jeune, board chairman, told Mr. Inglis that would first be necessary to analyze the cost of a new school and the cost of sending the pupils to another institution as is now the custom. The next step would be for the council to sanction the move and then a by-law would be placed before the electorate next January.

Mr. Inglis also felt that the old school in Cadboro Bay, on Finnerty Road, was not fit for use as well as being too far out of reach of those in the Bay region.

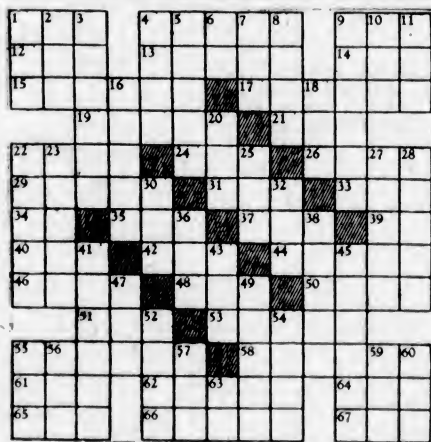

THANKSGIVING TO BE TOPIC FOR DAY

Dr. Henry Will Conduct Lord's
Supper in Morning—Special
Music in Evening

Tomorrow at Fairfield Church is Thanksgiving and Communion Sunday. At 11 o'clock the sacrament of the Lord's Supper, conducted by Dr. Henry, will be observed. The talk to boys and girls will be on the question, "Are You Growing?" There will be a solo, "The Cross of Calvary" (Gounod), by Mrs. K. J. Wood and an anthem, "Jesus, Word of God Incarnate" (Gounod), by the choir.

At 7:30 the theme is "Thanksgiving," with an address by Dr. Henry. The special music includes a solo, "The Heavens Declare the Glory of God" (Lehrer), by Mrs. D. Bentley; a double quartet, "God is a Spirit" (Bennett), by Mrs. F. Rowley, Miss C. Barlow, Mrs. J. C. McDonald, Mrs. P. C. Richards and Messrs. J. C. Warren, L. Abbott, F. A. Wardle and E. Anderson; and two anthems, "O Lord, How Manifold" (Barnby), and "I Will Magnify Thee, O God" (Goss), by the choir.

The evening service at 7:45 o'clock will be a thanksgiving service. The sermon subject will be "Why Be Thankful?" Special music will include an anthem by the choir, "Like a Shepherd" (John T. Thomas), and a solo by Miss Albertine Miller, "Thanks Be to God."

DEADLY SNAKES KILLED ON WHARF

Two Brought From Tropics in Shipment of Bananas Added to Collection

VANCOUVER, Oct. 5 (CP).—Two venomous diamond cobra adders, from the American tropics, were added today to the growing collection of snake exhibits in possession of George W. Head, superintendent of Ballantyne Pier. Longshoremen, handling 6,000 stems of bananas, off a vessel from Central America, shook the two well-chilled serpents from a banana cluster. They were quickly killed. One was more than two feet long, the other slightly smaller, with slender necks and wide, flat, triangular heads. A similar snake was killed several weeks ago, after it had fallen from a banana stem, and Mr. Head retained the skin.
